Trail Of Crime Following In Path; Guard Beaten By Escaping Men

CHICAGO, Aug. 17—Two armed and apparently desperate convicts who escaped from the Joliet (Ill.) penitentiary were hunted in and near Chicago today after they kidnaped an elderly Ohio couple and committed a series of other crimes while eluding police.

The Ohioans, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Rice of Bucyrus, were seized as they neared Chicago, driving East on their return from a western vacation. The convicts took over the car at pistol point, then drove with the Rices to Chicago, pausing in the city to hold up a gas station.

After the robbery, the convicts drove on for several blocks and then one of them, John McGuire, 42, got out of the car and disappeared on foot. The second convict, Charles Emmerson, 37, forced Rice, 60, to take the wheel and head Northwest from Chicago toward Rockford, Ill., Emmerson's home.

At Belvidere, several miles from Rockford, Rice collapsed from shock and the auto smashed into another car. Emmerson leaped out and escaped after taking $7 from Rice. Neither Rice nor his wife were harmed, but both were taken to a hospital in Belvidere to be treated for shock.

Joliet Guard Abducted

McGuire, serving one to fourteen years for manslaughter, and Emmerson, under a 1-to-20 sentence for auto theft, fled from Joliet late yesterday. Working out of doors under surveillance of Guard William E. Frew, 47, they overpowered Frew and drove off in a work truck, taking the guard with them.

GERMAN RESIDENT PAYS DEBT OF 49 CENTS TO DETROIT'S TREASURER

DETROIT, Aug. 17—With an apologetic note explaining that German law forbidding shipment of money from the Reich forced a delay, William Wandt of Perlberg, Germany, today repaid a debt of 49 cents.

In June, 1938, Wandt sent $7 from Germany to pay taxes on Detroit property he owns. He was 49 cents short. Clerk Jess Fecteau in the city treasurer's office paid the 49 cents and sent Wandt a note explaining the debt.

Yesterday the city treasurer received $45 from Wandt, who wrote instructions that $44.51 was to be applied to 1939 taxes, and 49 cents to be paid to Fecteau.

With the money was an official note from the Reichsbank specifying that the $45 was to be used exactly as outlined in Wandt's letter.

FAMILIES FLEE ALABAMA FLOOD

Prattsville Hit; Guardsmen Protect Property; Rail Fireman First Victim

PRATTSVILLE, Ala., Aug. 17—Scores of families were driven from their homes today as raging flood waters, believed to have reached the highest level in history, inundated large sections of Prattsville and brought death to one man.

Highway Patrolmen and national guardsmen patroled the streets to maintain order and prevent looting.

Several business buildings in the town were feared to have been dangerously undermined by the swirling torrents resulting from torrential rains that have fallen over the Southland for several days.

First fatality of the flood was Fireman Milliard Chism of a Mobile and Ohio work train, who was killed shortly after midnight as a watersoaked fill gave way and toppled the heavy locomotive and tender down a 50-foot embankment.

TRUNK GIVES UP BODY OF WOMAN IN RAIL STATION

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 17—The body of a woman, apparently about 30 years old, was found shortly before noon today in a trunk at the Atlanta terminal station.

The manner in which the woman met death was not immediately disclosed.

Authorities said the trunk had been placed on a train in Washington and addressed to Atlanta.

The body was only partially clothed.

The trunk arrived in Atlanta at 4:40 p. m. yesterday, it was said, but suspicions of workers at the station were not aroused until today.

The trunk had come through as excess baggage, and had been prepared by the shipper in Washington. The shipper was given a claim check in Washington, it was said.

Detective A. B. McNaughton of the Atlanta police force said first word that something was wrong came just before 11 o'clock this morning when he received a telephone call requesting that a homi-

Exiled Hero of German Army, Wife End Lives

BALTIMORE, Aug. 17—Dr. Julius Veith, German World War hero, and his noble Prussian wife, Hedwig, today sought "in eternity" the happiness denied them in Germany because his father was a Jew.

Dr. Veith, when the war broke out, was a noted physician, president of the Gottingen Medical society. Hedwig came from the nobility—the Von Valentini family of Prussia.

Dr. Veith enlisted, was made chief medical officer of the Bavarian Crown Prince's own regiment. But he wouldn't stay behind the lines. He fought in the trenches, was wounded, received the iron cross first class.

Today Dr. Veith was dead, along with Hedwig. When the Nazis rose to power, the doctor's practice was taken away, and the small pension he received was not enough to live on. So the Veiths went to Italy. Last February, importuned by a son, John, who lives in Baltimore, they came to Baltimore.

Change Too Great

But the change was too great. They could not adjust themselves to the new life. Happiness for them was in the old Germany alone.

So arm in arm, they sat on the kitchen floor in son John's modest home, the four stove burners turned on. John found them there, asphyxiated. A letter in German, signed by "mama and papa" and written in Dr. Veith's hand, said they were "seeking happiness together in eternity."

John, who also fought in the World War, told the story today as he prepared for the cremation, without funeral services, that his father and mother requested.

"My father's parents were Jewish," John said, "but he never embraced the Judaic faith. But they took his practice anyway. My mother had no Jewish blood. She could have returned to her family in Prussia. But she was very much in love with my father."

COOGAN'S SHARE OF BIG FORTUNE TO BE $126,000

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 17—Final settlement of Jackie Coogan's long battle for a share of the fortune he earned as a child film star more than a decade ago was a matter of court record today.

Superior Judge Emmett Wilson approved an agreement dividing an estimated $252,000, of which $126,000 goes to Jackie and the remainder to his mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur L. Bernstein.

Properties involved included stocks, bonds, trust deeds and real estate.

Coogan's attorney, William Rains, announced that Jackie's share goes automatically into a lifetime trust fund.

The fight for an accounting of his earnings, which Coogan at first estimated at $4,000,000, was begun more than a year ago. A preliminary settlement agreement was reached last April and liquidation of certain portions of the Coogan-Bernstein holdings has been in progress since.

Bund Fuehrer To Be Asked About Connections With Other Organizations

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17—American W. P. A. workers helped to contribute to a $3,000 fund which Fritz Kuhn, German-American Bund leader, personally conveyed to Chancellor Hitler in 1936 for German "Winter relief," Kuhn told the Dies committee today. Kuhn explained that many Bund members were on the W. P. A. relief rolls in this country and that they, along with employed members, were solicited and made contributions.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17—Fritz Kuhn, bulky fuehrer of the German-American Bund, was recalled by the Dies committee today for testimony concerning the interlocking activities of his organization and scores of similar groups in this country headed by less-publicized advocates of dictatorship.

Members of the committee said they were interested in clearing up numerous references made by Kuhn in his opening testimony yesterday to Maj. Gen. George Van Horn Moseley (U. S. army retired); William Dudley Pelley, head of the Silver Shirts; George Deatherage, self-styled commander of the Knights of the White Camellia, and Robert E. Edmondson, head of the American Vigilantes.

Others mentioned by Kuhn included James True, Washington, D. C. publisher of anti-Semitic literature; Donald Shea, head of the national Gentile league, and two women, Mrs. Leslie Fry, Pasadena, Calif., and Mrs. Rudyard Uzzell, Jamaica, L. I., both of whom have been repeatedly identified with so-called patriotic groups.

Coughlin Bid Cited

It was also indicated that there would be further questioning of Kuhn concerning invitations which the Bund leader extended to Father Coughlin, Detroit radio priest, and the organization known as the Christian Social Justice Society, to participate in rallies. Kuhn testified yesterday

Notices will be issued Friday to 22 persons on the Common Pleas court jury list to report next Tuesday for trial of the suit of Melvin McIntosh, 1132 S. Champion avenue, Columbus, against Harold and D. A. Marshall, Stoutsville Route 1.

The suit resulted from an auto and truck accident on Sept. 1, 1938 on Route 56 about a half mile southeast of Circleville. The plaintiff, driver of the auto, asks $2,500 damages, including $300 for damage to his auto, and personal injuries. In an answer and cross petition D. A. IS ILA McKELL, of Ogden, Utah, lucky to be alive? Perhaps, for Miss McKell was to have been a passenger on the ill-fated streamliner, City of San Francisco, which was wrecked near Elko, Nev., with a death toll of 23. A mixup in reservations caused her to miss the train.

KILLER OF MIAMI GIRL FACES TRIAL ON SEPTEMBER 25

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Aug. 17—The whereabouts of Charles R. Jefferson, alleged kidnaper of two young Miami girls, one of whom was found murdered last week, became the state's secret once again today.

Jefferson, a man of many aliases, was arraigned yesterday on charges of murder, criminal assault and kidnaping in connection with the abduction and slaying of 17-year-old Frances Dunn. Authorities said he confessed after arrest that he lured the Dunn girl and her friend, Jean Bolton, 19-year-old night club singer, on an auto trip on the promise of winning them movie tests.

Miss Bolton was released and gave the alarm, and Jefferson soon was taken into custody and spirited away to an unannounced jail to avoid possible mob violence. Yesterday it was revealed he had been kept in Orlando's escape-proof lockup, but after the arraignment he once again was removed to an unknown place—not Orlando, according to officers.

Pleas of not guilty to all three charges were entered for Jefferson by Judge O. E. Chillingworth, before whom he appeared, and Sept. 25 was set as the date for trial.

ACCIDENT BRINGS SUIT

Lyman Wilkinson, W. Union street, filed suit for $531 in Common Pleas court Wednesday against Boyce Parks, N. Pickaway street, based on an auto-pedestrian accident last April 22 on S. Scioto street. The plaintiff alleges Mr. Parks was careless and negligent in the operation of his car. The action lists $26 for medical expenses and $5 for x-rays.

NAZIS REPORTED READY TO SEEK RIGHTS IN EAST

Warsaw To Take Over Big Border Estates As "Security" Act

PEASANTS TO BE MOVED

Stories Concerning Trouble On Silesian Frontiers "Exaggerated"

BERLIN, Aug. 17—The Polish frontier facing Bohemia and Slovakia has been closed, a German official news agency (DNB) dispatch from Maehrisch-Ostrau stated today. The report gave no reason for the closing of the border.

WARSAW, Aug. 17—Poland today was officially reported opposed to any negotiations with Germany for the expansion of Nazi rights in the Polish Corridor separating East Prussia from the Reich.

(Background Note: An official spokesman in Berlin indicated today that the Reich planned to formulate specific demands for the revision of the status of the Corridor.)

High Polish officials asserted that any revision in the legal or geographic status of Pomorze would open the way for Nazi hegemony over the Baltic states and would menace Polish territorial independence and integrity.

Meanwhile, in a surprise move, the Polish government prepared to confiscate all landed estates along 12,500 kilometers of Polish border "for reasons of military security."

A decree to that effect, it was authoritatively stated, is to be promulgated soon, possibly tomorrow.

Peasants To Be Moved

The land, it was stated, will be turned over to Polish peasants apparently in an effort to populate the areas with Poles who would be prepared to defend their land in the event of a sudden aggression.

Military defenses, it was assumed, will be constructed in the areas involved.

Poland virtually slammed shut the door to any possibility of direct negotiations with Germany with the flat assertion by high officials that Warsaw is willing to talk with Berlin only if the Nazis abandon their demands for anschluss between Danzig and the Reich.

Poland's viewpoint regarding the possibility of a four or five-power conference, or direct negotiations with the Reich, was stated authoritatively to be:

"First, Danzig must remain a free state, and anschluss with Germany is barred.

"Second, Danzig must be connected with Poland by a customs union.

"Third, Poland cannot negotiate with Germany unless Germany renounces the idea of anschluss."

(Poland's statement revived discussion of a formula put forward in Germany months ago, whereunder Danzig would retain local autonomy under Reich sovereignty. Such a pattern could even embrace Chancellor Hitler's dictum that "Danzig is German and must return to the Reich." If

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Aug. 17—Johnny "No-Hit" Vander Meer, hurler for the Cincinnati Reds, will come to Chattanooga within the next week for treatment of his pitching arm, Lee Jensen, one-time baseball trainer, announced today.

Jensen said Warren Giles, official of the Cincinnati club, had made arrangements for Vander Meer, who pitched two straight no-hit games last season, to come to Chattanooga for muscular treatment of his pitching arm. Jensen treated Vander Meer prior to his going into the major leagues. The sophomore big leaguer has not lived up to his last year's promise of greatness. GERMAN RESIDENT PAYS DEBT OF 49 CENTS TO DETROIT'S TREASURER

DETROIT, Aug. 17—With an apologetic note explaining that German law forbidding shipment of money from the Reich forced a delay, William Wandt of Perlberg, Germany, today repaid a debt of 49 cents.

With the money was an official note from the Reichsbank specifying that the $45 was to be used exactly as outlined in Wandt's letter.

The Rev. Mr. Barthelmas has also presented Trinity Lutheran church with electric bell ringers and an electric toller for the memorial bells. An order has been placed with the I. T. Verdin Co., Inc., of Cincinnati, for this modern equipment. This will mark the first installation of electric bell ringers and electric toller in this part of the state.

Plans are under way for the installation and dedication of the Barthelmas memorial bells within the next 60 days. Church officials are planning a special dedicatory service, details of which will be announced.

Approximately 400 persons attended the homecoming and Brotherhood picnic at Mt. Pleasant church, near Williamsport, Wednesday afternoon.

Many former residents of the community from throughout Pickaway county and nearby counties were in attendance. Among those from a distance were Mrs. Lucy Rose Propst, Princess Ann, Md., Mrs. Ray Atwell, Utica, Kas., and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas R. Propst, of Spencerville, O.

The Brotherhood and auxiliary organizations of the church served a bountiful dinner to the visitors without charge. The dinner arrangements were under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Carter with the assistance of a large committee.

Notices will be issued Friday to 22 persons on the Common Pleas court jury list to report next Tuesday for trial of the suit of Melvin McIntosh, 1132 S. Champion avenue, Columbus, against Harold and D. A. Marshall, Stoutsville Route 1.

The suit resulted from an auto and truck accident on Sept. 1, 1938 on Route 56 about a half mile southeast of Circleville. The plaintiff, driver of the auto, asks $2,500 damages, including $300 for damage to his auto, and personal injuries. In an answer and cross petition D. A. Marshall asks $200 as damages to his truck.

Lucky to Live

IS ILA McKELL, of Ogden, Utah, lucky to be alive? Perhaps, for Miss McKell was to have been a passenger on the ill-fated streamliner, City of San Francisco, which was wrecked near Elko, Nev., with a death toll of 23. A mixup in reservations caused her to miss the train.

KILLER OF MIAMI GIRL FACES TRIAL ON SEPTEMBER 25

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Aug. 17—The whereabouts of Charles R. Jefferson, alleged kidnaper of two young Miami girls, one of whom was found murdered last week, became the state's secret once again today.

Jefferson, a man of many aliases, was arraigned yesterday on charges of murder, criminal assault and kidnaping in connection with the abduction and slaying of 17-year-old Frances Dunn. Authorities said he confessed after arrest that he lured the Dunn girl and her friend, Jean Bolton, 19-year-old night club singer, on an auto trip on the promise of winning them movie tests.

Miss Bolton was released and gave the alarm, and Jefferson soon was taken into custody and spirited away to an unannounced jail to avoid possible mob violence. Yesterday it was revealed he had been kept in Orlando's escape-proof lockup, but after the arraignment he once again was removed to an unknown place—not Orlando, according to officers.

Pleas of not guilty to all three charges were entered for Jefferson by Judge O. E. Chillingworth, before whom he appeared, and Sept. 25 was set as the date for trial.

ACCIDENT BRINGS SUIT

Lyman Wilkinson, W. Union street, filed suit for $531 in Common Pleas court Wednesday against Boyce Parks, N. Pickaway street, based on an auto-pedestrian accident last April 22 on S. Scioto street. The plaintiff alleges Mr. Parks was careless and negligent in the operation of his car. The action lists $26 for medical expenses and $5 for x-rays.

NAZIS REPORTED READY TO SEEK RIGHTS IN EAST

Warsaw To Take Over Big Border Estates As "Security" Act

PEASANTS TO BE MOVED

Stories Concerning Trouble On Silesian Frontiers "Exaggerated"

BERLIN, Aug. 17—The Polish frontier facing Bohemia and Slovakia has been closed, a German official news agency (DNB) dispatch from Machrisch-Ostrau stated today. The report gave no reason for the closing of the border.

WARSAW, Aug. 17—Poland today was officially reported opposed to any negotiations with Germany for the expansion of Nazi rights in the Polish Corridor separating East Prussia from the Reich.

(Background Note: An official spokesman in Berlin indicated today that the Reich planned to formulate specific demands for the revision of the status of the Corridor.)

High Polish officials asserted that any revision in the legal or geographic status of Pomorze would open the way for Nazi hegemony over the Baltic states and would menace Polish territorial independence and integrity.

Meanwhile, in a surprise move, the Polish government prepared to confiscate all landed estates along 12,500 kilometers of Polish border "for reasons of military security."

A decree to that effect, it was authoritatively stated, is to be promulgated soon, possibly tomorrow.

Peasants To Be Moved

The land, it was stated, will be turned over to Polish peasants apparently in an effort to populate the areas with Poles who would be prepared to defend their land in the event of a sudden aggression.

Military defenses, it was assumed, will be constructed in the areas involved.

Poland virtually slammed shut the door to any possibility of direct negotiations with Germany with the flat assertion by high officials that Warsaw is willing to talk with Berlin only if the Nazis abandon their demands for anschluss between Danzig and the Reich.

Poland's viewpoint regarding the possibility of a four or five-power conference, or direct negotiations with the Reich, was stated authoritatively to be:

"First, Danzig must remain a free state, and anschluss with Germany is barred.

"Second, Danzig must be connected with Poland by a customs union.

"Third, Poland cannot negotiate with Germany unless Germany renounces the idea of anschluss."

(Poland's statement revived discussion of a formula put forward in Germany months ago, whereunder Danzig would retain local autonomy under Reich sovereignty. Such a pattern could even embrace Chancellor Hitler's dictum that "Danzig is German and must return to the Reich." If

VANDY LEAVES REDS TO SEEK DOCTOR'S HELP

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Aug. 17—Johnny "No-Hit" Vander Meer, hurler for the Cincinnati Reds, will come to Chattanooga within the next week for treatment of his pitching arm, Lee Jensen, one-time baseball trainer, announced today.

Jensen said Warren Giles, official of the Cincinnati club, had made arrangements for Vander Meer, who pitched two straight no-hit games last season, to come to Chattanooga for muscular treatment of his pitching arm. Jensen treated Vander Meer prior to his going into the major leagues. The sophomore big leaguer has not lived up to his last year's promise of greatness. He has appeared in 25 games this season with a record of five won and eight lost.

House-To-House Selling, Passing Of Bills Scored

Council Votes Green River Ordinance To Halt Nuisances; Circleville Business Firms Not Covered In Statute

The Green River ordinance, attacking house-to-house selling and bill passing, was passed by council as an emergency measure Wednesday night.

The ordinance is well known to businessmen through its use in many states and in other Ohio cities. It originated in Green River, Wyoming, and has stood a test in the courts, councilmen were told.

A delegation from the Retail Merchants association, including Carl Hunter, Elmer Stebelton, Karl Mason and Ted Schmidt, attended the council session.

"We are interested in the protection of Circleville business," Mr. Hunter told councilmen. "The object of the ordinance is to stop persons who are not paying taxes here from soliciting and knocking on doors."

Prior to the passage of the ordinance an understanding was reached among the businessmen and council that the law was not to be used to prevent local merchants from passing handbills, but would be used against out-of-town interests. Enforcement of the regulations will be up to the mayor and police department.

The ordinance provides "That the practice of going in and upon private residences in the City of Circleville, Ohio, by solicitors, peddlers, itinerant vendors of merchandising, not having been invited or requested so to do by the owner or owners, occupants or occupant of said private residences, for the purposes of soliciting orders for the sale of goods, wares, and merchandise, and/or for the purposes of and/or peddling or hawking the same, is hereby declared to be a nuisance, and is punishable as such nuisance as a misdemeanor."

The ordinance provides a fine of $25 to $100.

F. D. to Lose if He Runs Again, Hoosier Claims

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17—Fifteen Democratic senators believe that if President Roosevelt is nominated for a third term, the Republicans will win the 1940 presidential election, Senator Frederick Van Nuys (D) Indiana, declared today.

However, Van Nuys, original leader of the senate's battle against the President's supreme court bill, believes the President can get a third term nomination if he so desires. He added, though, that either the President or one of "his political capons", if nominated, will be defeated.

"If we break down that last sacred tradition. the country is gone," said Van Nuys. "The only reason why I oppose Roosevelt is because of the sacred two-term tradition. I believe the President can probably cudgel the nomination out of the convention, if he so desires, but I don't believe he can carry Indiana or the nation on a third term ticket.

"If a new dealer is nominated, I would try to pick out his good points and support him. But if the President picks out one of his political capons—one of those political hybrids who have never really belonged to the Democratic party—it will be difficult for the Democrats to win.

Can Name 15

"I can name at least fifteen Democratic senators who feel the same way I do."

Van Nuys, an avowed supporter of Indiana's favorite son, Security Administrator Paul V. McNutt, for the 1940 Democratic nomination, said:

"The McNutt campaign is doing pretty well. It has made considerable progress since he came back home from the Philippines."

Asked about the possibility of Postmaster General James A. Farley winning the nomination, Van Nuys replied:

"Mr. Roosevelt needs Mr. Farley more than Mr. Farley needs Mr. Roosevelt. If Roosevelt isn't a candidate, Farley will have great strength in the convention."

On chances of the Democrats winning in Indiana next year, the senator observed:

"Indiana is a battleground. McNutt's return will help. He has a big following in Indiana and his presence will help materially but there is a very serious division in the state on Roosevelt's policies."

Asked for comment on the President's threat to "take a walk" in 1940 if the Democrats nominated a conservative, Van Nuys replied:

"If Roosevelt doesn't get himself or his choice nominated, he intends to bolt. Well, he set a precedent for bolting when he supported Theodore Roosevelt so he can't criticize us for bolting on some of his policies. But there's one big difference. I'll bolt when I like but no one can drive me out of the Democratic party. I'll fight my battles within the party. Not being a candidate for reelection, I am doing what I think is best for the country."

TOKYO CLAIMS HONG KONG NOT TO BE BLOCKED

TOKYO, Aug. 17— Anglo-Japanese tension was relieved today when a spokesman for the admiralty said the Japanese navy had no intention of establishing a blockade against Hong Kong.

Occupation of villages on the border of British crown colony, it was explained, was intended to cut off Chinese army supply sources.

Fears nevertheless arose among Britons that the Japanese action would curtail Hong Kong's supply of fresh vegetables, fruit, and meat.

The words of thesong,"He's a Jully Good Fellow" are modern, But the tune is said to be the world's oldest.

LONDON, — One of London's most mysterious characters, 70-year-old "Egyptian Jack" Mengedoht, was dead here today.

Although without formal education, Mengehoht for over 50 years daily haunted the Egyptian Babylonian and Assyrian Galleries of the British Museum until he became an authority an antinquities and cuneiform writing.

He made a precarious living by occasionally acting as an unofficial guide in the Egyptian section, but most of his time he spent inside the reading room with scientific books on the ancient researches.

TOKYO CLAIMS HONG KONG NOT TO BE BLOCKED

TOKYO, Aug. 17— Anglo-Japanese tension was relieved today when a spokesman for the admiralty said the Japanese navy had no intention of establishing a blockade against Hong Kong.

Occupation of villages on the border of British crown colony, it was explained, was intended to cut off Chinese army supply sources.

Fears nevertheless arose among Britons that the Japanese action would curtail Hong Kong's supply of fresh vegetables, fruit, and meat.

LONDON, — One of London's most mysterious characters, 70-year-old "Egyptian Jack" Mengedoht, was dead here today.

He made a precarious living by occasionally acting as an unofficial guide in the Egyptian section, but most of his time he spent inside the reading room with scientific books on the ancient researches.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

An excess of acids or poisons in your blood, when due to functional kidney disorders, may be the cause of nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

ARMY STUDENT AVIATOR KILLED

Military Board Probing Crash In Field Near San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Aug. 17—A military board today was investigating the crash last night of an army training plane in which Second Lieut. J. R. Hopson, 25-year-old Kelly field student flyer of Mobile, Ala., was killed.

The plane fell near Camp Bullis, where second divison maneuvers were being held, and witnesses said it seemed as though Hopson knew he was in trouble and was trying to put his ship down on a highway. Hopson was flying alone, returning to Kelly field from Abiline, Texas, on a navigation training flight. He was to have been graduated from student ranks next week.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Aug. 17—The "caterpillar club" had a new member in good standing today in Capt. C. T. Arnett, who won his membership last night by bailing out of an army plane which went out of control during a rainstorm. Capt. Arnet escaped with minor injuries, but his ship crashed on Double Oak mountain 12 miles southeast of Birmingham and was wrecked. The officer was flying from Chanute Field, Ill., to Maxwell Field, Montgomery, Ala., when the mishap occurred.

PETTENGILL

"The Gentleman from Indiana"

MR. ROOSEVELT DISCOVERS THE CONSTITUTION

It seems that Mr. Roosevelt won his Supreme Court fight, after all. So he says. All that he asked for, he got, although "it is true that the precise method which I recommended was not adopted".

But that precise method was what all the shooting was about. It was a scheme to enlarge the Court so that its decisions would be about as independent as a Nazi plebiscite. And if Mr. Roosevelt now finds the objective reached by procedure he would have changed, had Congress and the country permitted, he has made for himself a discovery that some of those who opposed his Court packing were trying to tell him.

PETTENGILL

Also we find Mr. Roosevelt all of a sudden become greatly worried over the constitutionality of legislation. He was afraid that the Hatch Bill would put into jeopardy the rights of Federal payrollers.

The President's concern over the constitutionality of legislation and his discovery that he doesn't have to tinker with the Supreme Court are extremely commendable. His concern and discovery came late, but forget not the joy in Heaven over the sinner that repenteth.

The degree of Mr. Roosevelt's conversion to the ancient faith of Americans, can be measured by his one-time urging a Congressional committee "not to permit doubts as to constitutionality, however reasonable, to block the suggested legislation." This was with reference to Senator Joe Guffey's coal bill. Congress did as urged, swallowed its doubts and passed the bill. Then the Supreme Court held the law unconstitutional. A few months later, with the election behind him, Mr. Roosevelt attacked the Court that so declared, and proposed to pack it with new judges to reverse this and other cases.

Mr. Roosevelt showed how he felt about the Constitution by saying in effect that it was easier to change the Court than to amend the Constitution! Don't change the rules. Change the umpire. But be sure of your umpire.

Outside of re-legalizing the sale of liquor Mr. Roosevelt has proposed no amendment whatever to the Constitution. Much of the vast power he now exercises, undreamed of from 1787 to 1933, came to him by short-circuiting constitutional processes.

It can scarcely be contended, for instance, that it was intended by the Constitution makers that Congress should ever turn over enormous sums of money to the Executive to be spent in his sole discretion. Nor that he should have power to coerce States to go into debt. Nor that he should have power to fix the value of money. Nor that he should use executive power to purge or elect Senators, Congressmen, or governors, as in Oregon, or mayors, as in New York City.

Mr. Roosevelt never worried about the Constitution when power was flowing into his hands. But now that the Hatch Act takes power from him by preventing his packing the next Democratic national convention with federal payrollers responsible to him, and thus to force his third nomination of his political legatee, Mr. Roosevelt grows anxious over the fate of the Constitution.

Mr. Roosevelt made a significant speech on the 150th anniversary of the signing of the Constitution, September 17, 1937. At that time he said in substance that the Constitution conferred upon the Supreme Court no power to hold acts of Congress unconstitutional. Of course if this doctrine were to prevail, all minorities would be at the mercy of majorities.

Many of us thought this question was settled 136 years ago when the Supreme Court, for the first time, declared an act of Congress unconstitutional. That was in Jefferson's administration. Jefferson did not like the decision. He had control of both Houses of Congress. Nevertheless Mr. Jefferson made no effort to pack the Court, to reverse the decision which he personally disapproved.

Since Jefferson's time 90 justices have sat upon the Supreme Court of the United States. Not a single one of them so far as I know has ever agreed with the Roosevelt views on this question. In the intervening 136 years thousands of Congressmen and Senators have sat in Washington, tens of thousands have sat in different State legislatures. In the meantime all of the great political parties have had frequent national conventions and wrote many platforms to submit to the people. At no time has either House or Congress, any State legislature, or the members of any national party convention other than the Socialists or Communists ever taken any action to deprive the Supreme Court of the power it asserted 136 years ago.

If any doctrine could be considered as settled by the acquiescence therein of generations of Americans, it is that there must be some court somewhere to which an American citizen may go when he claims that an act of Congress or a State legislature deprives him of his constitutional rights.

BUSY ALLEY TO BE IMPROVED BY SERVICE OFFICE

L. E. Miller, service director, was authorized by council Wednesday night to start work at once on a storm sewer in the first alley east of Court street between Main and Franklin streets and to pave the alley.

The sewer, to remove pools of water from the alley after heavy rains, will extend from Main street to the intersection in the alley between Main and Franklin streets.

This alley, used as much as some streets, has been in bad condition. A petition was filed with council some time ago requesting the alley be improved.

Mr. Miller informed council he would use as much relief labor as possible on the improvement. This labor will be furnished through the county relief department, including men who work out relief orders.

The alley will be paved with brick, then slushed with concrete, the improvement being similar to other alley improvements made in the downtown district by the service department.

ARMY STUDENT AVIATOR KILLED

Military Board Probing Crash In Field Near San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Aug. 17—A military board today was investigating the crash last night of an army training plane in which Second Lieut. J. R. Hopson, 25-year-old Kelly field student flyer of Mobile, Ala., was killed.

The plane fell near Camp Bullis, where second divison maneuvers were being held, and witnesses said it seemed as though Hopson knew he was in trouble and was trying to put his ship down on a highway. Hopson was flying alone, returning to Kelly field from Abiline, Texas, on a navigation training flight. He was to have been graduated from student ranks next week.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Aug. 17—The "caterpillar club" had a new member in good standing today in Capt. C. T. Arnett, who won his membership last night by bailing out of an army plane which went out of control during a rainstorm. Capt. Arnet escaped with minor injuries, but his ship crashed on Double Oak mountain 12 miles southeast of Birmingham and was wrecked. The officer was flying from Chanute Field, Ill., to Maxwell Field, Montgomery, Ala., when the mishap occurred.

"The Gentleman from Indiana"

MR. ROOSEVELT DISCOVERS THE CONSTITUTION

It seems that Mr. Roosevelt won his Supreme Court fight, after all. So he says. All that he asked for, he got, although "it is true that the precise method which I recommended was not adopted".

But that precise method was what all the shooting was about. It was a scheme to enlarge the Court so that its decisions would be about as independent as a Nazi plebiscite. And if Mr. Roosevelt now finds the objective reached by procedure he would have changed, had Congress and the country permitted, he has made for himself a discovery that some of those who opposed his Court packing were trying to tell him.

PETTENGILL

Also we find Mr. Roosevelt all of a sudden become greatly worried over the constitutionality of legislation. He was afraid that the Hatch Bill would put into jeopardy the rights of Federal payrollers.

The President's concern over the constitutionality of legislation and his discovery that he doesn't have to tinker with the Supreme Court are extremely commendable. His concern and discovery came late, but forget not the joy in Heaven over the sinner that repenteth.

The degree of Mr. Roosevelt's conversion to the ancient faith of Americans, can be measured by his one-time urging a Congressional committee "not to permit doubts as to constitutionality, however reasonable, to block the suggested legislation." This was with reference to Senator Joe Guffey's coal bill. Congress did as urged, swallowed its doubts and passed the bill. Then the Supreme Court held the law unconstitutional. A few months later, with the election behind him, Mr. Roosevelt attacked the Court that so declared, and proposed to pack it with new judges to reverse this and other cases.

Mr. Roosevelt showed how he felt about the Constitution by saying in effect that it was easier to change the Court than to amend the Constitution! Don't change the rules. Change the umpire. But be sure of your umpire.

Outside of re-legalizing the sale of liquor Mr. Roosevelt has proposed no amendment whatever to the Constitution. Much of the vast power he now exercises, undreamed of from 1787 to 1933, came to him by short-circuiting constitutional processes.

It can scarcely be contended, for instance, that it was intended by the Constitution makers that Congress should ever turn over enormous sums of money to the Executive to be spent in his sole discretion. Nor that he should have power to coerce States to go into debt. Nor that he should have power to fix the value of money. Nor that he should use executive power to purge or elect Senators, Congressmen, or governors, as in Oregon, or mayors, as in New York City.

Mr. Roosevelt never worried about the Constitution when power was flowing into his hands. But now that the Hatch Act takes power from him by preventing his packing the next Democratic national convention with federal payrollers responsible to him, and thus to force his third nomination of his political legatee, Mr. Roosevelt grows anxious over the fate of the Constitution.

Mr. Roosevelt made a significant speech on the 150th anniversary of the signing of the Constitution, September 17, 1937. At that time he said in substance that the Constitution conferred upon the Supreme Court no power to hold acts of Congress unconstitutional. Of course if this doctrine were to prevail, all minorities would be at the mercy of majorities.

Many of us thought this question was settled 136 years ago when the Supreme Court, for the first time, declared an act of Congress unconstitutional. That was in Jefferson's administration. Jefferson did not like the decision. He had control of both Houses of Congress. Nevertheless Mr. Jefferson made no effort to pack the Court, to reverse the decision which he personally disapproved.

Since Jefferson's time 90 justices have sat upon the Supreme Court of the United States. Not a single one of them so far as I know has ever agreed with the Roosevelt views on this question. In the intervening 136 years thousands of Congressmen and Senators have sat in Washington, tens of thousands have sat in different State legislatures. In the meantime all of the great political parties have had frequent national conventions and wrote many platforms to submit to the people. At no time has either House or Congress, any State legislature, or the members of any national party convention other than the Socialists or Communists ever taken any action to deprive the Supreme Court of the power it asserted 136 years ago.

If any doctrine could be considered as settled by the acquiescence therein of generations of Americans, it is that there must be some court somewhere to which an American citizen may go when he claims that an act of Congress or a State legislature deprives him of his constitutional rights.

FOOLED BY FIRECRACKER

TOLEDO, Ore. — Firecrackers are all right in their place, but the briny deep's not their place, believed Eddy Zedwick, Toledo merchant.

Zedwick thought if he ignited a weighted, water-tight firecracker, it would toss out the water in his rain-filled out board motorboat in no time at all. The giant explosive blew out the bottom of the boat.

BUSY ALLEY TO BE IMPROVED BY SERVICE OFFICE

L. E. Miller, service director, was authorized by council Wednesday night to start work at once on a storm sewer in the first alley east of Court street between Main and Franklin streets and to pave the alley.

The sewer, to remove pools of water from the alley after heavy rains, will extend from Main street to the intersection in the alley between Main and Franklin streets.

This alley, used as much as some streets, has been in bad condition. A petition was filed with council some time ago requesting the alley be improved.

Mr. Miller informed council he would use as much relief labor as possible on the improvement. This labor will be furnished through the county relief department, including men who work out relief orders.

The alley will be paved with brick, then slushed with concrete, the improvement being similar to other alley improvements made in the downtown district by the service department.

O. S. U. TRUSTEES APPLAUDED FOR MARXIST ACTION

Council Praises Directors Who Voted To Oust 'Red' Club From Campus

TWO DISSENTERS FLAYED

Thompson And Miss Campbell Taken To Task After Minority Report

COLUMBUS, Aug. 17 — The Ohio Council of Civic, Fraternal and Patriotic organizations today awaited a reply to a telegram filled with praise and criticism of Ohio State university trustees in connection with the board's report on un-American activities at the institution.

The commendation was for the majority of the board, which approved the report banning the Marxist club from the campus for alleged subversive activity. In the same message, the council flayed trustees who dissented in the trustees' action: Lockwood Thompson, of Cleveland and Miss Edith Campbell, of Cincinnati.

Signed by E. W. Chester, president of the council, the telegram read, in part:

"The Council commends your report regarding un-American activities at Ohio State university, but does not feel that the general subject has been vigorously enough pursued, especially in the light of certain documentary evidence presented by members of our group.

"As for the minority report of the dissenters, we pose the following questions:

Questions Asked

"Is Mr. Thompson a champion of atheism and non-private property principle? Does Miss Campbell believe it proper for people of college age to enjoy unlimited discussion in mixed groups, of interracial intercourse, community of women and free love?

"These are the principles set forth in the Communist manifesto of Karl Marx. We desire a public reply."

Meanwhile, the trustees ended their three-day meeting at Gibraltar island in Lake Erie and announced they would convene again in special session before the regular conference in Wooster Sept. 18.

The extra gathering was planned to discuss selection of a president for the university to succeed Dr. George W. Rightmire, who retired 14 months ago.

The board was unable to reach a decision on appointment of a successor to H. W. Arant, who resigned as dean of the law school to become a U. S. circuit court of appeals judge. Pending selection of the new dean, the trustees named three men to take care of the law department: Arthur Martin, Silas Harris and Robert Mathews.

'CHIMP' PUSHES LAMOUR DURING WORK ON FILM

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 17—Because a movie chimpanzee played too rough, Dorothy Lamour, sarong queen of Hollywood, was in a Hollywood hospital today with a wrenched back. No fears are felt for the shapely Miss Lamour, according to doctors.

Paramount studio representatives said the accident was a case of the chimp not knowing his own strength. Given a sudden shove by the animal, the star's playmate in the picture "Typhoon," Miss Lamour lost her balance and fell over a rock, hurting her back. It was the sarong girl's first mishap in three pictures with chimpanzees.

Rumanians Must Choose Between Allies, Axis

BUCHAREST, Aug. 17—Rumania is at the cross-roads now and must soon choose between the axis powers and the "peace front."

This is the general feeling in political circles here after Foreign Minister Gafencu returned from a tour though European, especially Balkan countries and Turkey.

Pressed by all sides for a decision one way or another, responsible quarters have become convinced that the country can no longer afford to defer its final resolutions regarding her foreign political affiliations and the shaping of its future course.

So, King Carol and his government are confronted by grave problems, the settlement of which may decide the role which the country will play in future European Powers. The policy of balance with all Powers is no longer possible, unless the cauntry wants itself to be seated between two chairs.

Pressure by Turkey

It is understood that Gafencu was pressed hard by Sukuru Saracoglu, the Turkish Foreign Minister to line up with the Democracies.

Sarachoglu's arguments carried weight, since the Turks are the masters of the Dardanelles, indispensable for Rumanian shipping and the country's conection with the Mediterranean. At the same time the "peace front" seems to offer a better chance to ward off Bulgarian aspirations.

On returning from his Balkan trip Gafencu was subjected to a heavy bombardment from the Italians, while the German Reich Minister and Commissar of Justice Dr. Franck visited Sofia, where he obviously encouraged Bulgarian revisionist aspirations. It is understood that the Italian Ambassador warned Gafencu openly that Rumania should not fall for the promises of the British and French and become a tool of their policy of encirclement. Gafencu protested such an interpretation and declared Rumania's foreign policy was determined solely in accord with Rumania's interests and not dictated by any other Power.

Visit of Dr. Ley

The visit of Dr. Robert Ley, head of the German Lobar Front in Bucharest, where he opened the German pavilion during the exhibition "Strength through recreation" has also been interpreted here as an attempt by the Reich to impress Rumania with the necessity of joining the "anti-communist" countries rather than the democracies. However, the "Anti-Comintern" division of the exhibition, devised by Germany and Italy was not permitted to be opened.

During the inauguration ceremonies Dr. Ley was supposed to deliver a well-prepared speech against marxism and communism, but the King decided that there would be two speeches, that of the Rumanian Minister of Labor and his own reply. So. Dr. Ley was compelled to hold his speech at the club of the Rumanian industrialists, where no government officials were present.

The newly appointed Soviet envoy now in Bucharest is expected to increase the pressure brougnt upon Rumania from all sides to make up her mind and make her choice which side to turn to in the organization of "fronts" throughout Europe.

20 OFFICIALS IN EASTERN CITY FOUND GUILTY

WATERBURY, Conn., Aug. 17—Mayor Frank Hayes, of Waterbury, a former lieutenant governor of Connecticut, and 19 other persons, including many present and former city officials, stood convicted today on charges of conspiring to cheat and defraud the city of an estimated $1,000,000 between the years of 1930 and 1938.

Mayor Hayes and 18 of the defendants, all of whom went on trial Nov. 29, 1938, were found guilty by a jury late yesterday afternoon while the nineteenth, Charles E. Williamson, of Darien, a former Republican state leader, was adjudged guilty by Judge Ernest A. Inglis to whom he had entrusted his fate.

Mayor Hayes wept as he stepped from the courtroom but his sole comment was: "It was in the cards."

The chief charges at the lengthy trial were that a contractor was paid $600,000 for services never rendered the city; that the city was charged for a dinner Mayor Hayes gave state senators when he was lieutenant governor; that several lawyers were paid large sums of money for work never performed; and that various of the defendants shared thousands of dollars in lobbying fees.

Council Praises Directors Who Voted To Oust 'Red' Club From Campus

TWO DISSENTERS FLAYED

Thompson And Miss Campbell Taken To Task After Minority Report

COLUMBUS, Aug. 17 — The Ohio Council of Civic, Fraternal and Patriotic organizations today awaited a reply to a telegram filled with praise and criticism of Ohio State university trustees in connection with the board's report on un-American activities at the institution.

Questions Asked

"Is Mr. Thompson a champion of atheism and non-private property principle? Does Miss Campbell believe it proper for people of college age to enjoy unlimited discussion in mixed groups, of interracial intercourse, community of women and free love?

"These are the principles set forth in the Communist manifesto of Karl Marx. We desire a public reply."

The extra gathering was planned to discuss selection of a president for the university to succeed Dr. George W. Rightmire, who retired 14 months ago.

The board was unable to reach a decision on appointment of a successor to H. W. Arant, who resigned as dean of the law school to become a U. S. circuit court of appeals judge. Pending selection of the new dean, the trustees named three men to take care of the law department: Arthur Martin, Silas Harris and Robert Mathews.

'CHIMP' PUSHES LAMOUR DURING WORK ON FILM

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 17—Because a movie chimpanzee played too rough, Dorothy Lamour, sarong queen of Hollywood, was in a Hollywood hospital today with a wrenched back. No fears are felt for the shapely Miss Lamour, according to doctors.

Paramount studio representatives said the accident was a case of the chimp not knowing his own strength. Given a sudden shove by the animal, the star's playmate in the picture "Typhoon," Miss Lamour lost her balance and fell over a rock, hurting her back. It was the sarong girl's first mishap in three pictures with chimpanzees.

Rumanians Must Choose Between Allies, Axis

BUCHAREST, Aug. 17—Rumania is at the cross-roads now and must soon choose between the axis powers and the "peace front."

This is the general feeling in political circles here after Foreign Minister Gafencu returned from a tour though European, especially Balkan countries and Turkey.

Pressed by all sides for a decision one way or another, responsible quarters have become convinced that the country can no longer afford to defer its final resolutions regarding her foreign political affiliations and the shaping of its future course.

So, King Carol and his government are confronted by grave problems, the settlement of which may decide the role which the country will play in future European Powers. The policy of balance with all Powers is no longer possible, unless the cauntry wants itself to be seated between two chairs.

Pressure by Turkey

It is understood that Gafencu was pressed hard by Sukuru Sarachoglu, the Turkish Foreign Minister to line up with the Democracies.

Sarachoglu's arguments carried weight, since the Turks are the masters of the Dardanelles, indispensable for Rumanian shipping and the country's conection with the Mediterranean. At the same time the "peace front" seems to offer a better chance to ward off Bulgarian aspirations.

On returning from his Balkan trip Gafencu was subjected to a heavy bombardment from the Italians, while the German Reich Minister and Commissar of Justice Dr. Franck visited Sofia, where he obviously encouraged Bulgarian revisionist aspirations. It is understood that the Italian Ambassador warned Gafencu openly that Rumania should not fall for the promises of the British and French and become a tool of their policy of encirclement. Gafencu protested such an interpretation and declared Rumania's foreign policy was determined solely in accord with Rumania's interests and not dictated by any other Power.

Visit of Dr. Ley

The visit of Dr. Robert Ley, head of the German Lobar Front in Bucharest, where he opened the German pavilion during the exhibition "Strength through recreation" has also been interpreted here as an attempt by the Reich to impress Rumania with the necessity of joining the "anti-communist" countries rather than the democracies. However, the "Anti-Comintern" division of the exhibition, devised by Germany and Italy was not permitted to be opened.

During the inauguration ceremonies Dr. Ley was supposed to deliver a well-prepared speech against marxism and communism, but the King decided that there would be two speeches, that of the Rumanian Minister of Labor and his own reply. So, Dr. Ley was compelled to hold his speech at the club of the Rumanian industrialists, where no government officials were present.

The newly appointed Soviet envoy now in Bucharest is expected to increase the pressure brougnt upon Rumania from all sides to make up her mind and make her choice which side to turn to in the organization of "fronts" throughout Europe.

20 OFFICIALS IN EASTERN CITY FOUND GUILTY

WATERBURY, Conn., Aug. 17—Mayor Frank Hayes, of Waterbury, a former lieutenant governor of Connecticut, and 19 other persons, including many present and former city officials, stood convicted today on charges of conspiring to cheat and defraud the city of an estimated $1,000,000 between the years of 1930 and 1938.

Mayor Hayes and 18 of the defendants, all of whom went on trial Nov. 29, 1938, were found guilty by a jury late yesterday afternoon while the nineteenth, Charles E. Williamson, of Darien, a former Republican state leader, was adjudged guilty by Judge Ernest A. Inglis to whom he had entrusted his fate.

Mayor Hayes wept as he stepped from the courtroom but his sole comment was: "It was in the cards."

The chief charges at the lengthy trial were that a contractor was paid $600,000 for services never rendered the city; that the city was charged for a dinner Mayor Hayes gave state senators when he was lieutenant governor; that several lawyers were paid large sums of money for work never performed; and that various of the defendants shared thousands of dollars in lobbying fees.

BANKS OF OHIO SERVING NEEDS OF COMMUNITIES

452 Institutions Disclose 429,472 New Loans During First Six Months Of '39

AVERAGE SIZE IS $1,370

Credit Extensions To Folk Of State Shown In Data Provided To A. B. A.

NEW YORK, Aug. 17 — That banks in Ohio are actively serving the credit needs of their communities is indicated by figures announced here today by the American Bankers Association, showing that 452 banks in 330 towns and cities in Ohio have reported to the Association that they made 249,472 new loans during the first six months of 1939, totaling $341,761,718. The average number of new loans made per bank was 552, and the average size of the loans was $1,370.

The same 452 banks reported that in addition to new loans they made 296,731 renewals of existing loans this half year period, these renewels amounting to the continuation of credit extensions totaling $381,828,720. The average number of loans renewed per bank was 656 and the renewels were for an average loan of $1,287.

These banks also reported that they made 9,853 mortgage loans totaling $28,796,528.

Big Percentage Represented

The 452 reporting banks represent 64 percent of the 705 banks in Ohio. On the basis of the showing of these 452 banks it can be estimated that more than 300,000 new loans were made and approximately 400,000 existing loans were renewed by Ohio banks, aggregating credit extensions to the public of Ohio in the neighborhood of one billion dollars during the six months' period from January 1 to June 30, 1939.

In addition to making loans on specific applications, banks in larger cities maintain what are known as "confirmed lines of credit," of specified amounts, available at all times to established regular business borrowers. Forty-eight banks in Ohio reported that they maintain such "confirmed lines of credit" on their books in the sum of $119,542,288. They state, however, that only $33,478,703, or 28 percent of this credit, was being used by business firms as of June 30.

A similar report was published two weeks ago for the State of Pennsylvania. It showed that 417 banks in 290 cities and towns in the Keystone State reported that they made 231,236 new loans totaling $372,350,286, and 675,498 renewals of existing loans aggregating $750,393,485, in the same period, January 1, to June 30, 1939.

MUSIC LOVING PRISON INMATE ERECTS ORGAN

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., — Because a "stick-up" man loves music, the Indiana State Prison is getting an organ.

A prisoner, known to outsiders only as a number, but known to officials and fellow inmates as "Jim" is building an organ in the prison auditorium.

"Jim" is serving a 10-year sentence for armed robbery of a filling station. Before Jim's wife died and he "went off the deep end," he was a bank teller and cost accountant. The prisoner's hobby was playing the violin. He had been taught at one of the nation's foremost music schools.

Twenty-eight months ago, Chaplain Hall commented during services in the prison that the institution needed an organ but added that the state was unable to buy one.

Shortly afterward, Jim volunteered to construct an organ, although never had he had experience building such an instrument. He wrote to his mother, who forwarded a book on organ building.

Uses Discarded Lumber

Jim found discarded lumber, pipe, wire and other necessary materials about the prison. Lumber was hollowed out to form the pipes in the institution's workshops.

Some one "lifted" his organ building book, but Jim heard of Dr. William H. Barnes, of Evanston, Ill., organ architect, who wrote an encouraging letter and sent a blower, generator and motor. Later, Dr. Barnes visited the prison to watch the building. The state finally contributed $25 toward purchase of material.

The organ contains 514 pipes in eight ranks and is of standard two manual size. The only other organ built inside prison walls, at Sing Sing, was destroyed by the inmate who constructed it on the day of his release.

JOAN BENNETT

After her recent film encounter with "The Man in The Iron Mask," Joan Bennett feels capable of a verbal tiff with Charlie "Man with The Wooden Face" McCarthy, and will meet him Sunday. Another Hollywood guest is Charles Irwin who lends his talent to the program regularly featuring Don Ameche, Dorothy Lamour, Nelson Eddy, Edgar Bergen and Robert Armbruster's orchestra over the NBC red network at 7 p. m.

RADIO NEWS IN BRIEF

Tony Martin and his wife, Alice Faye, arrived in New York Monday. Martin will start rehearsals immediately for his new role as emcee on the Andre Kostelanetz "Tune-Up Time" programs which resume over CBS Aug. 21.

Billy Rose, whose last radio appearance was on George Jessel's Celebrity Program about two weeks ago, returns to the microphone as a guest of Ted Husing on "That's What I Said," over CBS Tuesday, Aug. 22.

Lily Pons, who recently concluded a nationwide record-breaking concert tour with her husband, Andre Kosetlanetz, has been set for additional concert dates starting Oct. 5 in Winnipeg. She returns to the Metropolitan Opera in December. Kostelanetz, in the meantime, is busily preparing for the renewal of his "Tune-Up Time" series over CBS Aug. 21.

Bill McCune's orchestra, which went into the Essex House in New York for one week, will be held over until the Frankie Masters' crew comes in some time in September following the latter's vaudeville tour with Eddie "Rochester" Anderson and Betty Grable.

Frankie Masters takes his broadcasting orchestra into the Essex House in New York city for an indefinite run Sept. 5.

First audience rating on Horace Heidt's "Answers From the Dancers" indicates the Monday night program is in the smash hit class. In the half hour dance band ratings he's second only to Tommy Dorsey and tied in rating with another band. His mark of 5.5 pushes him ahead of the ratings of many of the older bands on the airwaves.

"If I Had the Chance" won't be on the air over the NBC-Blue network Tuesday, Aug. 22, giving up its microphone time to allow a broadcast of the Armstrong-Ambers championship fight.

A new arrangement of "Limehouse Blues," to be played by Johnny Green and his orchestra as a musical highspot of the "Johnny Presents" program over CBS Friday, Aug. 18 at 7:30 p. m. Maestro Green will aso be heard in a piano solo of "The Man With the Mandolin," with vocal interpolations by the Swing Fourteen. Other numbers are "I'm Sorry For Myself," "White Sails," and "You Are Free," the latter with in "The Perfect Crime" stories written by Max Marcin.

RANCHER'S WIFE WINS HER SCHOOL DIPLOMA AT 70

MANSFIELD, Wash., — Mrs. Jane Grubbs, 70-year-old whitehaired wife of a wheat rancher, finally had her high school diploma today.

Although she received a high school education and gained two normal school diplomas as a young woman in Quebec, Mrs. Grubbs decided she wanted an American high school diploma.

So for the past four years the elderly woman walked seven miles from her home to school for her special assignments.

"I never wanted to stop learning," she explained. "You know, I've never been able to learn enough."

Schools don't teach enough practical subjects, Mrs. Grubbs believes. "The greatest trouble with colleges is they teach so much one doesn't need," she says. "School should train persons to work for themselves."

BANKS OF OHIO SERVING NEEDS OF COMMUNITIES

452 Institutions Disclose 429,472 New Loans During First Six Months Of '39

AVERAGE SIZE IS $1,370

Credit Extensions To Folk Of State Shown In Data Provided To A. B. A.

NEW YORK, Aug. 17 — That banks in Ohio are actively serving the credit needs of their communities is indicated by figures announced here today by the American Bankers Association, showing that 452 banks in 330 towns and cities in Ohio have reported to the Association that they made 249,472 new loans during the first six months of 1939, totaling $341,761,718. The average number of new loans made per bank was 552, and the average size of the loans was $1,370.

The same 452 banks reported that in addition to new loans they made 296,731 renewals of existing loans this half year period, these renewels amounting to the continuation of credit extensions totaling $381,828,720. The average number of loans renewed per bank was 656 and the renewels were for an average loan of $1,287.

These banks also reported that they made 9,853 mortgage loans totaling $28,796,528.

Big Percentage Represented

The 452 reporting banks represent 64 percent of the 705 banks in Ohio. On the basis of the showing of these 452 banks it can be estimated that more than 300,000 new loans were made and approximately 400,000 existing loans were renewed by Ohio banks, aggregating credit extensions to the public of Ohio in the neighborhood of one billion dollars during the six months' period from January 1 to June 30, 1939.

In addition to making loans on specific applications, banks in larger cities maintain what are known as "confirmed lines of credit," of specified amounts, available at all times to established regular business borrowers. Forty-eight banks in Ohio reported that they maintain such "confirmed lines of credit" on their books in the sum of $119,542,288. They state, however, that only $33,478,703, or 28 percent of this credit, was being used by business firms as of June 30.

A similar report was published two weeks ago for the State of Pennsylvania. It showed that 417 banks in 290 cities and towns in the Keystone State reported that they made 231,236 new loans totaling $372,350,286, and 675,498 renewals of existing loans aggregating $750,393,485, in the same period, January 1, to June 30, 1939.

MUSIC LOVING PRISON INMATE ERECTS ORGAN

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., — Because a "stick-up" man loves music, the Indiana State Prison is getting an organ.

A prisoner, known to outsiders only as a number, but known to officials and fellow inmates as "Jim" is building an organ in the prison auditorium.

"Jim" is serving a 10-year sentence for armed robbery of a filling station. Before Jim's wife died and he "went off the deep end," he was a bank teller and cost accountant. The prisoner's hobby was playing the violin. He had been taught at one of the nation's foremost music schools.

Twenty-eight months ago, Chaplain Hall commented during services in the prison that the institution needed an organ but added that the state was unable to buy one.

Shortly afterward, Jim volunteered to construct an organ, although never had he had experience building such an instrument. He wrote to his mother, who forwarded a book on organ building.

Uses Discarded Lumber

Jim found discarded lumber, pipe, wire and other necessary materials about the prison. Lumber was hollowed out to form the pipes in the institution's workshops.

Some one "lifted" his organ building book, but Jim heard of Dr. William H. Barnes, of Evanston, Ill., organ architect, who wrote an encouraging letter and sent a blower, generator and motor. Later, Dr. Barnes visited the prison to watch the building. The state finally contributed $25 toward purchase of material.

The organ contains 514 pipes in eight ranks and is of standard two manual size. The only other organ built inside prison walls, at Sing Sing, was destroyed by the inmate who constructed it on the day of his release.

First audience rating on Horace Heidt's "Answers From the Dancers" indicates the Monday night program is in the smash hit class. "If I Had the Chance" won't be on the air over the NBC-Blue network Tuesday, Aug. 22, giving up its microphone time to allow a broadcast of the Armstrong-Ambers championship fight.

A new arrangement of "Limehouse Blues," to be played by Johnny Green and his orchestra as a musical highspot of the "Johnny Presents" program over CBS Friday, Aug. 18 at 7:30 p. m. RANCHER'S WIFE WINS HER SCHOOL DIPLOMA AT 70

MANSFIELD, Wash., — Mrs. Jane Grubbs, 70-year-old whitehaired wife of a wheat rancher, finally had her high school diploma today.

Although she received a high school education and gained two normal school diplomas as a young woman in Quebec, Mrs. Grubbs decided she wanted an American high school diploma.

So for the past four years the elderly woman walked seven miles from her home to school for her special assignments.

"I never wanted to stop learning," she explained. "You know, I've never been able to learn enough."

Schools don't teach enough practical subjects, Mrs. Grubbs believes. "The greatest trouble with colleges is they teach so much one doesn't need," she says. "School should train persons to work for themselves."

AROUND THE WORLD

THE Cleveland Convention and Visitors' Bureau sent a packet around the world by air mail to see how long it would take. The packet just got back, and 22 days, 5 hours and 55 minutes was what it took to complete the journey.

Nice going! Fine advertising for the air mail service.

But there are a few humbler tasks that might be called to the attention of the plain, common or garden mail service. Keeping rural postoffices clean, for instance. Engaging reasonably bright clerks to handle mail at windows.

Far be it from us, of course, to make any complaint of our local service. But you should just hear what the tourists say about the postoffices they meet in small places on their travels!

It's grand to have a piece of mail go around the world in 22 days. But it would be so pleasant to have a little clean linoleum on the floor in Podunk Village and the man in Suburbia would be gratified if a letter posted by him on Friday afternoon might be delivered in his neighboring metropolis on Saturday morning instead of Monday afternoon.

When it comes to turning back government-stamped three-cent envelopes for "lack of postage" because the color didn't happen to print properly—this is a family home newspaper and couldn't possibly print what the business man who told the office about it would like to have us say!

GOLD-GRABBING

WAR conducted as a business, for profit, leads to strange procedures. It has turned the Japanese to a frenzied quest for gold, just as it did with the Italian government during its conquest of Abyssinia. Italian women were persuaded then to exchange their golden wedding rings for iron ones, and somewhat similar measures have been used to corral German gold. But the Japanese government goes farther.

Every person and organization in Japan has had to report any articles of gold in his possession. These include rings, earrings, cuff buttons, necktie pins, hairpins, watch cases, spectacle rims, compacts lipstick tubes, cane handles, cigaret holders, ash trays, spoons, candlesticks, incense-burners, seals, pen-points—and gold teeth.

It isn't clear whether Japanese with gold teeth are to have them pulled, and gold fillings extracted, but it wouldn't be surprising. The Tokio government is desperate for lack of money and credit, and gold is more than ever the great disideratum of militarist countries.

Thus the more gold our government gathers in and locks up, the harder it seems for the totalitarian countries to wage war. This may justify at last what has looked like folly.

GAMBLING MAJOR INDUSTRY

WASHINGTON—Except for those working on the inside of the Moe Annenberg income tax case, few realize the ramifications and importance of the indictment just brought against the famous racing news czar by a Chicago grand jury.

Annenberg, according to insiders, has been getting a bigger income than any other living being walking on two legs—excepting possibly John D. Rockefeller, Senior, during the lush days before the income tax law was passed. Most of this comes from selling racetrack news.

And before the Annenberg case is finished a lot of other interesting angles may develop. One will be the tremendous profits made by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company indirectly from the racetrack business.

But most important by far will be the inside story of the spread of the racetrack business, now one of the major industries of U. S. A. Moe Annenberg's primary purpose may not have been to nurture this mushroom industry, but it remains a fact that without his news service it would not be so easy for the hundreds and thousands of bookies located far from the racetracks to operate.

THE HORSES ARE OUT

To understand the Annenberg racing empire let's get a detailed picture of how it operates.

Assume the Saratoga track is in full swing. An Annenberg employe watches each race, dictating a running story to a telegraph operator. Far away in the 2,000 bookie establishments of Chicago and in the 1,500 of New Orleans, and in thousands of others in Detroit, New York, Los Angeles, racetrack fans are watching the Annenberg news service.

"The horses are out!" comes the flash from Saratoga. It is carried over a telephone circuit simultaneously to the bookies in all the different cities. A special telephone circuit links the Chicago bookmaking establishments together, all the Philadelphia bookies together, and so on. Annenberg has his own private operators, his own switchboards, and runs a private telephone empire. Internal Revenue agents estimate the communication tax which he may be called upon to pay the Government to be greater than the $5,548,000 already claimed on income taxes.

$160,000 WEEKLY

Through this service, the bookie knows the result and track odds on each race as soon as it happens. He pays from $30 to $150 weekly for it. The sum is fixed by Annenberg, and the bookie has nothing to say about it. An Annenberg agent sits in his establishment for a few days, estimates

Reading Efficiency Can Be Improved

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THE ARTICLE yesterday brings to mind the methods which have been devised to test reading efficiency.

In spite of the competition of radio and movies, the daily output of literature keeps increasing. A modern person is called upon to digest an enormous amount of reading to keep up with the times. All kinds of literature — books, newspapers, magazines, news weeklies — pour into the home in greater variety than ever before. The increase has been estimated at 200 per cent more than in 1900.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Great Increase in Reading

The amount we read, whether we are required to or not, is astonishing compared to a person in the same relative walk of life a century ago. I inherited my grandfather's library. He was a physician, as I am.

His medical library consisted of five books. On the shelf in front of me are thirty-seven technical medical books. He subscribed to one medical magazine. I take six.

His general library consisted of about 75 volumes—Gibbon's Decline and Fall, Bunyan, Shakespeare, Irving's Columbus, Hildreth's History of the United States and bound volumes of Harper's Magazine. In the room where I sit are 2,000 books.

Newspaper an Education

My grandfather's newspaper was a thin two-page sheet, mostly sheriff's advertisements. I recently, as an experiment, in five different cities on five different days, read all of one local newspaper. In each case it took me over two hours.

In each case I was interested, instructed, stimulated and enlightened. I don't suppose my grandfather ever read in any one day as much as I read in each of those five days. To read such newspapers is a cultural experience—a liberal education.

The question arises: How efficient is our reading nowadays? Is the human nervous system able to stand this high-power onslaught on it?

Pupils Backward in Reading

Beginning in the schools, Dr. Arthur Gates estimates that of pupils in junior and senior high schools 1 per cent are no better readers than third grade pupils. Of 12,000 fifth and sixth grade pupils, 30 per cent have not progressed beyond the fourth grade reading standard.

Pauses make up 95 per cent of the time you spend in reading. You read to the end of a line, then, with a long reverse sweep, your eyes move to the beginning of the next line. Then you pause before starting to read that line. Ten per cent of the non-reading time is spent in making the eye movements. The rest of the non-reading time is spent in a pause at the beginning of the line.

Camera Records It

This can be determined by a device with a camera which records the eye movements while reading. The good reader is the one who cuts down the pause period to the lowest possible point. Good reading is rhythmic reading.

Reading efficiency can be improved. Nine out of every 10 students who were carefully trained by experts improved in capacity for reading.

The highly efficient reader can take in more than one word in an instant, as his eyes travel across a page. That is, he can read more than one word without a fixation, however momentary, of the eyes. But even the best cannot take in many words. If in reading a line of 10 words you pause fleetingly six times, your index is 1.6. Even the most efficient cannot do better than 1.7.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendening has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet", "Indigestion and Constipation", "Reducing and Gaining", "Infant Feeding", "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes", "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin".

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE . . . Hour by Hour

Pages from the Diary of An Antiquated Reporter:

Up to the sound of crowing roosters, barking dogs, concrete workers fudging on the heat as they worked replacing cement steps out front. Lingered briefly over coffee and then away to the post, there meeting Mack Parrett, secretary of the Pumpkin Show, and learning from him that there is a great demand for concessions this year. Once more the annual event will be "bigger and better than ever."

Out and over the paves, stopping to chat with George Foresman, the banker, and Charlie May, the barrister. Ade Yates told me he believes there will be no war in Europe and that made me feel better. Visited the coffee club and learned that Mayor Bill had been there before me, figuring that it was his turn to be host and paying for my java in advance. Sorry I missed him for I wished to discuss with him the possibility of obtaining a plumbing code for the ville. Know that he has nothing whatever to do with the enactment of ordinances, but hoped to learn an angle or two from him.

With the completion of our new sewage disposal plant, orders went out for the elimination of all outdoor toilets. Many bathrooms are now being installed in homes that never had them before. Many of these installations are being made by men who are not plumbers. Many of them are dangerous to the health not only of the residents of the houses with faulty equipment, but to all who come in contact with them. The city should demand applications for permission to change or install plumbing and when the work is completed should provide for its inspection by a man competent to pass on proper installations. Council should not delay action on this matter and should make the ordinance retroactive to include all plumbing installations of the last year.

Dropped in here and there during the day, ate a late, lonesome lunch, heard that Guy Pettit and family were on their way home from a trailer vacation jaunt into Michigan and at Chet Blue's furniture store tuned in on the last two innings of the game in which the Cubs tore down Bucky Walters. Hope the Reds' margin of victory gets no smaller. Home near sundown after by telephone having put in an order for a cold dinner. Me, I'm just about ready for Winter.

In the evening Mrs. Margaret Smith sent over a bud from her night blooming cactus with instructions to place it in water immediately so that it would open before midnight. I did and it did and when it was at the peak of its beauty did take it to the front porch and place it alongside that goofy cactus of ours to show our plant possibilities of proper endeavor. Don't know what will be the effect, but there had better be some for my patience is just about exhausted. Retired then to dream that our cactus was not a cactus after all, that it was a plant that produced man eating flowers and one of them had serious designs on me. Don't remember how I escaped, but I did, for when morning came there I was safe in bed.

Phantom Ranch

WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

by OREN ARNOLD

SYNOPSIS

LORENA HAMILTON has come to Arizona to visit her uncle GEORGE BRAZEE, owner of Phantom ranch, whose leading cowboys are JERRY DALE, college-bred newcomer, who is fascinated by Lorena, and SHOT ROGERS, who finds himself in love with her.

YESTERDAY: Because Lorena is sympathetic over Jerry's wounded hand, he makes further advances, which she dislikes.

Lorena stayed in the valley all day and helped with the noon meal.

CHAPTER EIGHTEEN

THE PHANTOM cowboys who had been at work on the far mesa came in about sundown Thursday—and hit the sky with anger because they had missed the night fight. They had been refused permission to go with Rogers' scouts earlier in the week; now they felt doubly mistreated. However, there was a deal of further work to be done.

All day Thursday had been given to bringing in the dead Mexican and burying him, and to sending the other dying one in to Blanco. Man power being short that day, Shot Rogers himself had dug the grave, and after the services there he and George Brazee filled it and covered it with stones.

"He's a forgotten man," Shot had remarked, wiping off the sweat of labor. But Mr. Brazee hadn't said anything; he could be silent for hours at a time.

On Friday the ranch hands had to ride to Crown valley, tie ropes around the dead and now bloating cattle, and drag them to a central ditch. Crude oil and some gasoline had to be brought and poured on the carcasses and then fire set to them. Jerry Dale himself directed this. As scientist of the ranch he warned that so many dead stock would create a potential disease danger, because other stock would have to be grazed in Crown valley. The burning was a smelly, sickening business. And yet, Lorena Hamilton stayed in the valley there all day, helping old Jasper prepare the noon meal that the men ate from the chuck wagon. This latter fact afforded welcome relief from the unpleasant task at hand.

"Hit's th' best grub we've et in five years!" one puncher drawled, over a tin cup of coffee. "It ain't no sand and gravel on th' meat, ner in th' bread dough, ner even in th' sugar can, by dads!"

Jasper snarled at him and the group all guffawed, echoing their thanks to Lorena. She herself squatted cowboy fashion on one heel and drank her coffee with them. But Jerry Dale sat possessively near her during that half hour respite for lunch. His conversation and his manner indicated at all times that Miss Lorena Hamilton was some exquisite creature which he alone had discovered, brought in and expected to own exclusively. He strutted a little in it, perhaps unconsciously.

Shot Rogers sat with his boss, George Brazee, and didn't say a word to Lorena during the meal, although he did share the humble privilege that all of them had of looking at her. Shot was picking his teeth with a stem of tough grass—a luxury in which Jerry Dale, incidentally, did not indulge—when he spoke to his boss.

"Mr. Brazee, the work here can be done in another two hours. If it's all right, I'll just ride around and see if the Mexes left any sort of sign. That many of them might have dropped some kind of trail that would remain even through the rain."

"Go ahead, son," the older man nodded at once. "You do whatever you think best in this matter."

But Shot didn't find anything. Rolled stones and gravel and sand and trash had obliterated any possible trail. Shot knew the Mexicans had escaped back into Mexico. He and his "army" would have to start again from scratch. He knew his scouts would be drifting in that night, figuring also that the rain had thwarted them this time. Four did so come in, but the others arrived Saturday morning, bedraggled and tired. Shot ordered them to rest up for the dance that night.

Shot himself felt pretty good Saturday after breakfast, and all at once found himself with nothing to do that day. He didn't want to start on another scouting expedition—at least not until Sunday. And George Brazee wouldn't let him help with any of the ranch routine.

"Darned if I don't feel like a rich man or something!" he told Lorena, perched on the corral fence there in the sunshine. She had come out and climbed up with him, watching some young stock get roped. "Us military boys got time on our hands, until the dance."

"Aren't you glad?" she smiled. "Maybe this is the time to teach me to shoot a pistol, as you promised."

"Say!" he beamed, pointing at her with his hat. "Say, Miss Lorena—shore!"

They got guns and ammunition and walked a quarter-mile toward a high cliff. Shot did a little demonstrating first. He threw up a rock the size of a walnut and cracked it into bits with one pistol shot. She gave him deserved applause.

He tried a few more stunts—he was a very young man then, showing off—and the sociability was high, even if the lesson was lagging. In a little while, though, he set up some targets and got down to business.

"Now you want to squeeze it, ma'am, not pull, or you'll jerk off the bead," he tried to tell her. Then he reached to show her, putting his rough tanned hand over her pink one that held the gun. Before he realized it the move had brought him very near to Lorena. His chin was almost on her brown curls, and he caught abruptly the strange, incomparable scent of woman, a delicate sweetness and a subtlety which was almost narcotic to him. He swallowed hard.

"Lordy!" he murmured.

"What's the matter?" she asked, curiously, looking up and very naturally smiling a little. The move further disturbed him. He took a deep breath and lied.

"I was—I was wishing I'd of brought you—I had brought you a lighter gun," he said. "Never mind, though. You take a quick aim, then squeeze. Go on, you'll get the hang of it quick, I'll bet."

She got the hang of it. They spent an hour practicing and then they sat down on a cottonwood log to talk. He watched her while she fluffed her hair—the motion showed off her beautifully curved arms, he noted—and she made him tell her again about catching the Mexican in the hills. One topic led to another, and before long Shot Rogers was showing off again.

"No, ma'am," he was saying, seriously but brightly and with enthusiasm, "Indian smoke signals aren't noth—aren't anything much to learn. The redskins were good with them, but white people could use them, too, and did so. Look—I'll just built up a little fire and show you!"

In no time he had a fire going. He showed her how to dump green brush or leaves on it to make a sudden thick column of smoke. She evidenced high interest, and so Shot Rogers—who could be a stern and highly efficient man—ran boy-like up the hill and whistled to the black boy Midnight to bring him an old saddle blanket. With that, Shot showed Lorena how to cut off the column of smoke, sending puffs of it in what might have been crude dots and dashes of the Indian times.

"Only of course they didn't have no—didn't have any code like that," he explained. "They had a code of their own, though, and it could be read for miles."

"How interesting!" declared Lorena, and meant it.

"Yes, ma'am. You try it yourself."

She did, and it was fun and she told him so.

"Let's have our own code," she suggested, giggling like a campfire girl might do. "Want to? Let's see, I'll make three puffs, then—"

He grinned at her then, though.

"Nawp! No, you're trying to make a Boy Scout out of me!" It suddenly occurred to Shot that he was being kiddish, so he sat back down on the log feeling rather embarrassed. "You go ahead and play any time you want to. Make a lot of puffs. Maybe I'll—well, let's say th' Apaches are about to scalp you or something, and so I'll ride up shooting and rescue th' fair damsel!"

He blushed at his own speech. Lorena laughed gaily and he blushed again.

Then she came and sat down beside him, and saw that his muscles were lithe and hard and that his bare head was really pretty in the sunshine because the blond of it seemed to capture and hold the golden rays. It occurred to her, sitting there, that this was an exceedingly lovely morning despite the trouble they had known. A lot of birds were singing and she felt like singing herself. She supposed it was all due to the cleansing rain.

AROUND THE WORLD

THE Cleveland Convention and Visitors' Bureau sent a packet around the world by air mail to see how long it would take. The packet just got back, and 22 days, 5 hours and 55 minutes was what it took to complete the journey.

Nice going! Fine advertising for the air mail service.

But there are a few humbler tasks that might be called to the attention of the plain, common or garden mail service. Keeping rural postoffices clean, for instance. Engaging reasonably bright clerks to handle mail at windows.

Far be it from us, of course, to make any complaint of our local service. But you should just hear what the tourists say about the postoffices they meet in small places on their travels!

It's grand to have a piece of mail go around the world in 22 days. But it would be so pleasant to have a little clean linoleum on the floor in Podunk Village and the man in Suburbia would be gratified if a letter posted by him on Friday afternoon might be delivered in his neighboring metropolis on Saturday morning instead of Monday afternoon.

When it comes to turning back government-stamped three-cent envelopes for "lack of postage" because the color didn't happen to print properly—this is a family home newspaper and couldn't possibly print what the business man who told the office about it would like to have us say!

GOLD-GRABBING

WAR conducted as a business, for profit, leads to strange procedures. It has turned the Japanese to a frenzied quest for gold, just as it did with the Italian government during its conquest of Abyssinia. Italian women were persuaded then to exchange their golden wedding rings for iron ones, and somewhat similar measures have been used to corral German gold. But the Japanese government goes farther.

Every person and organization in Japan has had to report any articles of gold in his possession. These include rings, earrings, cuff buttons, necktie pins, hairpins, watch cases, spectacle rims, compacts lipstick tubes, cane handles, cigaret holders, ash trays, spoons, candlesticks, incense-burners, seals, pen-points—and gold teeth.

It isn't clear whether Japanese with gold teeth are to have them pulled, and gold fillings extracted, but it wouldn't be surprising. The Tokio government is desperate for lack of money and credit, and gold is more than ever the great disideratum of militarist countries.

Thus the more gold our government gathers in and locks up, the harder it seems for the totalitarian countries to wage war. This may justify at last what has looked like folly.

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN.

GAMBLING MAJOR INDUSTRY

WASHINGTON—Except for those working on the inside of the Moe Annenberg income tax case, few realize the ramifications and importance of the indictment just brought against the famous racing news czar by a Chicago grand jury.

Annenberg, according to insiders, has been getting a bigger income than any other living being walking on two legs—excepting possibly John D. Rockefeller, Senior, during the lush days before the income tax law was passed. Most of this comes from selling racetrack news.

And before the Annenberg case is finished a lot of other interesting angles may develop. One will be the tremendous profits made by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company indirectly from the racetrack business.

But most important by far will be the inside story of the spread of the racetrack business, now one of the major industries of U. S. A. Moe Annenberg's primary purpose may not have been to nurture this mushroom industry, but it remains a fact that without his news service it would not be so easy for the hundreds and thousands of bookies located far from the racetracks to operate.

THE HORSES ARE OUT

To understand the Annenberg racing empire let's get a detailed picture of how it operates.

Assume the Saratoga track is in full swing. An Annenberg employe watches each race, dictating a running story to a telegraph operator. Far away in the 2,000 bookie establishments of Chicago and in the 1,500 of New Orleans, and in thousands of others in Detroit, New York, Los Angeles, racetrack fans are watching the Annenberg news service.

"The horses are out!" comes the flash from Saratoga. It is carried over a telephone circuit simultaneously to the bookies in all the different cities. A special telephone circuit links the Chicago bookmaking establishments together, all the Philadelphia bookies together, and so on. Annenberg has his own private operators, his own switchboards, and runs a private telephone empire. Internal Revenue agents estimate the communication tax which he may be called upon to pay the Government to be greater than the $5,548,000 already claimed on income taxes.

$160,000 WEEKLY

Through this service, the bookie knows the result and track odds on each race as soon as it happens. He pays from $30 to $150 weekly for it. The sum is fixed by Annenberg, and the bookie has nothing to say about it. An Annenberg agent sits in his establishment for a few days, estimates

Reading Efficiency Can Be Improved

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THE ARTICLE yesterday brings to mind the methods which have been devised to test reading efficiency.

In spite of the competition of radio and movies, the daily output of literature keeps increasing. A modern person is called upon to digest an enormous amount of reading to keep up with the times. All kinds of literature — books, newspapers, magazines, news weeklies — pour into the home in greater variety than ever before. The increase has been estimated at 200 per cent more than in 1900.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Great Increase in Reading

The amount we read, whether we are required to or not, is astonishing compared to a person in the same relative walk of life a century ago. I inherited my grandfather's library. He was a physician, as I am.

His medical library consisted of five books. On the shelf in front of me are thirty-seven technical medical books. He subscribed to one medical magazine. I take six.

His general library consisted of about 75 volumes—Gibbon's Decline and Fall, Bunyan, Shakespeare, Irving's Columbus, Hildreth's History of the United States and bound volumes of Harper's Magazine. In the room where I sit are 2,000 books.

Newspaper an Education

My grandfather's newspaper was a thin two-page sheet, mostly sheriff's advertisements. I recently, as an experiment, in five different cities on five different days, read all of one local newspaper. In each case it took me over two hours.

In each case I was interested, instructed, stimulated and enlightened. I don't suppose my grandfather ever read in any one day as much as I read in each of those five days. To read such newspapers is a cultural experience—a liberal education.

The question arises: How efficient is our reading nowadays? Is the human nervous system able to stand this high-power onslaught on it?

Pupils Backward in Reading

Beginning in the schools, Dr. Arthur Gates estimates that of pupils in junior and senior high schools 1 per cent are no better readers than third grade pupils. Of 12,000 fifth and sixth grade pupils, 30 per cent have not progressed beyond the fourth grade reading standard.

Pauses make up 95 per cent of the time you spend in reading. You read to the end of a line, then, with a long reverse sweep, your eyes move to the beginning of the next line. Then you pause before starting to read that line. Ten per cent of the non-reading time is spent in making the eye movements. The rest of the non-reading time is spent in a pause at the beginning of the line.

Camera Records It

This can be determined by a device with a camera which records the eye movements while reading. The good reader is the one who cuts down the pause period to the lowest possible point. Good reading is rhythmic reading.

Reading efficiency can be improved. Nine out of every 10 students who were carefully trained by experts improved in capacity for reading.

The highly efficient reader can take in more than one word in an instant, as his eyes travel across a page. That is, he can read more than one word without a fixation, however momentary, of the eyes. But even the best cannot take in many words. If in reading a line of 10 words you pause fleetingly six times, your index is 1.6. Even the most efficient cannot do better than 1.7.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendening has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet", "Indigestion and Constipation", "Reducing and Gaining", "Infant Feeding", "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes", "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin".

Phantom Ranch

WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

by OREN ARNOLD

SYNOPSIS

LORENA HAMILTON has come to Arizona to visit her uncle GEORGE BRAZEE, owner of Phantom ranch, whose leading cowboys are JERRY DALE, college-bred newcomer, who is fascinated by Lorena, and SHOT ROGERS, who finds himself in love with her.

YESTERDAY: Because Lorena is sympathetic over Jerry's wounded hand, he makes further advances, which she dislikes.

Lorena stayed in the valley all day and helped with the noon meal.

CHAPTER EIGHTEEN

THE PHANTOM cowboys who had been at work on the far mesa came in about sundown Thursday—and hit the sky with anger because they had missed the night fight. They had been refused permission to go with Rogers' scouts earlier in the week; now they felt doubly mistreated. However, there was a deal of further work to be done.

All day Thursday had been given to bringing in the dead Mexican and burying him, and to sending the other dying one in to Blanco. Man power being short that day, Shot Rogers himself had dug the grave, and after the services there he and George Brazee filled it and covered it with stones.

"He's a forgotten man," Shot had remarked, wiping off the sweat of labor. But Mr. Brazee hadn't said anything; he could be silent for hours at a time.

On Friday the ranch hands had to ride to Crown valley, tie ropes around the dead and now bloating cattle, and drag them to a central ditch. Crude oil and some gasoline had to be brought and poured on the carcasses and then fire set to them. Jerry Dale himself directed this. As scientist of the ranch he warned that so many dead stock would create a potential disease danger, because other stock would have to be grazed in Crown valley. The burning was a smelly, sickening business. And yet, Lorena Hamilton stayed in the valley there all day, helping old Jasper prepare the noon meal that the men ate from the chuck wagon. This latter fact afforded welcome relief from the unpleasant task at hand.

"Hit's th' best grub we've et in five years!" one puncher drawled, over a tin cup of coffee. "It ain't no sand and gravel on th' meat, ner in th' bread dough, ner even in th' sugar can, by dads!"

Jasper snarled at him and the group all guffawed, echoing their thanks to Lorena. She herself squatted cowboy fashion on one heel and drank her coffee with them. But Jerry Dale sat possessively near her during that half hour respite for lunch. His conversation and his manner indicated at all times that Miss Lorena Hamilton was some exquisite creature which he alone had discovered, brought in and expected to own exclusively. He strutted a little in it, perhaps unconsciously.

Shot Rogers sat with his boss, George Brazee, and didn't say a word to Lorena during the meal, although he did share the humble privilege that all of them had of looking at her. Shot was picking his teeth with a stem of tough grass—a luxury in which Jerry Dale, incidentally, did not indulge—when he spoke to his boss.

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE . . . Hour by Hour

Pages from the Diary of An Antiquated Reporter:

Up to the sound of crowing roosters, barking dogs, concrete workers fudging on the heat as they worked replacing cement steps out front. Lingered briefly over coffee and then away to the post, there meeting Mack Parrett, secretary of the Pumpkin Show, and learning from him that there is a great demand for concessions this year. Once more the annual event will be "bigger and better than ever."

Out and over the paves, stopping to chat with George Foresman, the banker, and Charlie May, the barrister. Ade Yates told me he believes there will be no war in Europe and that made me feel better. Visited the coffee club and learned that Mayor Bill had been there before me, figuring that it was his turn to be host and paying for my java in advance. Sorry I missed him for I wished to discuss with him the possibility of obtaining a plumbing code for the ville. Know that he has nothing whatever to do with the enactment of ordinances, but hoped to learn an angle or two from him.

With the completion of our new sewage disposal plant, orders went out for the elimination of all outdoor toilets. Many bathrooms are now being installed in homes that never had them before. Many of these installations are being made by men who are not plumbers. Many of them are dangerous to the health not only of the residents of the houses with faulty equipment, but to all who come in contact with them. The city should demand applications for permission to change or install plumbing and when the work is completed should provide for its inspection by a man competent to pass on proper installations. Council should not delay action on this matter and should make the ordinance retroactive to include all plumbing installations of the last year.

Dropped in here and there during the day, ate a late, lonesome lunch, heard that Guy Pettit and family were on their way home from a trailer vacation jaunt into Michigan and at Chet Blue's furniture store tuned in on the last two innings of the game in which the Cubs tore down Bucky Walters. Hope the Reds' margin of victory gets no smaller. Home near sundown after by telephone having put in an order for a cold dinner. Me, I'm just about ready for Winter.

* * *

In the evening Mrs. Margaret Smith sent over a bud from her night blooming cactus with instructions to place it in water immediately so that it would open before midnight. I did and it did and when it was at the peak of its beauty did take it to the front porch and place it alongside that goofy cactus of ours to show our plant possibilities of proper endeavor. Don't know what will be the effect, but there had better be some for my patience is just about exhausted. Retired then to dream that our cactus was not a cactus after all, that it was a plant that produced man eating flowers and one of them had serious designs on me. Don't remember how I escaped, but I did, for when morning came there I was safe in bed.

Helen Yates Honored At Teegardin Home Party

Bride-elect Given Many Gifts At Evening Fete

One of the most delightful of the many parties complimenting Miss Helen Yates of N. Scioto street, bride-elect of Forrest Brown, was the bridge-shower entertained Wednesday evening by Miss Grace Teegardin of near Duvall. Miss Teegardin, who will become the bride of Melvin Kiger, Aug. 25, was hostess to seven tables of contract bridge players, the guests being invited for 8 p. m.

Tall spikes of gladioli of many shades together with budlia decorated the rooms of the home for the affair.

BRITISH PLANE SHIP LAUNCHES SELF IN HURRY

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, Aug. 17 — One person was reported killed, many were injured and thousands were imperiled today when the 23,000-ton aircraft carrier Formidable launched itself ahead of schedule.

The vessel broke lose and slid down the ways half an hour prior to the time set for the official launching. The accident happened when scaffolding supporting the ship suddenly broke.

Authorities said it was only by a stroke of good fortune that the warship slid into the water instead of falling over on the crowds assembled to witness the launching.

When the vessel broke loose, thousands of persons were massed along the sides of the slipways.

Hundreds of shipwrights working under the keel scrambled hurriedly to safety and scores of women fainted at the sight of the near-disaster.

With remarkable presence of mind, Lady Kingsley Wood, wife of the air secretary, made sure that the formidable was christened even though the ship's launching was ahead of schedule.

As the Formidable started to move, she crashed a bottle of champagne against its side.

NAZIS REPORTED READY TO SEEK RIGHTS IN EAST

Warsaw To Take Over Big Border Estates As "Security" Act

negotiations are opened, Hitler already has promised to give Poland commercial concessions in Danzig.)

Stories Exaggerated

The same authoritative Polish quarters today insisted that Germany had "exaggerated" stories of disturbances on the Silesian frontier.

"Quiet and order prevail in the frontier districts," it was asserted. "German reports of arrests and malteatment are exaggerated. Arrests have been made only in cases where members of the German minority in Poland were suspected of espionage on behalf of Germany or subversive activity."

One case mentioned was that of Senator Rudolph Wiesner, chief of the Young German Party, who was arrested on charges of having connections with spying circles. He was released with several other Germans today.

Warsaw authorities, however, admitted that some minority Germans had been roughly treated when they "bragged about Germany and used threats against Poland."

BERLIN, Aug. 17—Unconditional return of Danzig to the Reich and "resettlement" of the Polish Corridor problem today were declared on high authority to constitute Gemany's revised demands on Poland.

Regarding Danzig, the Reich stands firmly on Chancellor Hitler's speech before the Reichstag last April, and on the "self-determination" principles of President Wilson's fourteen points.

(In April Hitler demanded anschluss with Danzig, as a German city, and an extra-territorial route across the Polish Corridor. In retun, he offered Poland trade concessions on the Baltic and a 25-year non-agression pact.)

BIGELOW'S PLAN HIT AS BOARDS REMOVE NAMES

COLUMBUS, Aug. 17—Demand for an investigation of signatures on the Bigelow $50-a-month pension plan petitions in Williams county was made today as a checkup revealed that 39 percent of the signatures favoring a referendum on the proposal had been declared invalid in 10 counties.

Charges that two or more names were written by the same person on the Williams county petitions were made to the local board of elections by Former Jupdge C. L. Newcomer. He asked that F. E. Palmer, who swore to seven of the lists, be called in for questioning. The board asked Secretary of State Earl Griffith what action to take.

Meanwhile, election boards in other counties continued to check petitions as deficiencies were reported by the following counties, an average of 39 percent:

Paulding county highest with 80 percent invalid; Muskingum lowest with only seven percent; Defiance, 60; Wayne, 68; Guernsey, 59; Columbiana, 26; Perry, 18; Coshocton, 25; Knox, 36 and Monroe 26.

Between 80,000 and 90,000 signatures would be lost should the present ratio be maintained in other counties, the secretary of state's office said. That would mean the constitutional amendment would not go on the November ballot unless the invalidated names were replaced.

AFTER identifying the body of his 17-year-old daughter Wanda, the Rev. Walter Dworecki of the Fourth Polish Baptist church in Camden, N. J., collapses in the arms of police officers. The girl was found shot to death in a clump of bushes in a "lover's lane" in South Camden.

THE GARDEN CLINIC

By VICTOR H. RIES,
O. S. U. floriculturist

QUESTION: I wish to plant some daffodils this Fall and would like to know what varieties you would recommend that would not be too expensive.

ANSWER: Those that I have found very satsifactory and and which, with the selection of varieties, will give a long period of bloom are Golden Spur, Aerolite, Van Waveren's Giant, Nette O'Melven, Lord Kitchener, Ornatus Maximus, Bath's Flame, Seagull, Croesus, Queen of the North, John Evelyn, Sir Watkin, Will Scarlett, Golden Sceptre, Odorus Orange Queen, and Laurens Koster.

QUESTION: I am interested in specie tulips. In looking over the bulb catalogue which I just received I find there are a number of different ones listed and would like to know which ones you would recommend.

ANSWED: The two most satisfactory of all the species are Kaufmanniana and Sylvestris. Both of these seem to be rather permanent in most gardens. You will also find Clusiana will stay with you quite a while. Another that I found rather satisfactory although less common is Praestans.

QUESTION: We have just purchased a new home and in planning for trees to plant this Fall would like to know if you would recommend we plant a weeping willow in the front lawn.

ANSWER: Unless you have a very large yard you will find the weeping willow will take up most of your front lawn. Remember that when it is full grown it is going to cover an area 50 feet in diameter with the branches hanging down to the ground. This is hardly satisfactory for the average yard.

QUESTION: A man came by the other day with a truck load of evergreens offering to tell me what to plant and to plant them. Do you think I would be safe in getting these?

ANSWER: Ordinarily, the men peddling evergreens from trucks know no more about what evergreens you should plant and how to plant them than the average man does about crocheting. My advice is to go directly to some nearby nursery where, if the stock purchased is not satisfactory, you will know to whom to take your complaint. Most people who purchase from itinerant truck peddlers get gloriously stung.

QUESTION: Since in a recent Clinic you said you would not be able to furnish landscape services to those requesting it, would you recommend that I get a local man who is doing lawn grading and sodding to plan my yard for me?

ANSWER: I certainly would not. I would want to get a qualified landscape gardener or landscape architect to go to a nursery which employed a landscape gardener. You will find in the end that it is cheaper to employ someone who knows something about landscaping. You will save the cost of their fee in the saving of the plants you purchase. The ignorant landscape man will use the wrong kind of plants, will put in about twice as many as you need, with the result that you will have to do it all over again in a few years.

QUESTION: I wish to put in a hedge along the front of my yard and would like to know if you would recommend the redleafed Japanese barberry.

ANSWER: Although the redleafed Japanese barberry is a lovely shrub, I certainly would not want as much red foliage as you would have if you planted an entire hedge of this shrub. At most you would want but two or three plants around the average yard as a color accent.

QUESTION: We are planning on reseeding our lawn this Fall and the local hardware man has recommended Chewing's fescue. Does this make a good lawn?

ANSWER: Chewing's fescue is the best grass for a shaded lawn. However, in sunny places I believe you will find you will much prefer the texture and color of Kentucky bluegrass.

QUESTION: I am making a gray garden and would like to know what gray foliage shrubs I might use as background.

ANSWER: For this purpose I would recommend the Rosemary willow, the Russian olive, and its sister plants, Eleagnus umbellata and Elongipes.

QUESTION: The leaves of the horse chestnut tree in my yard are turning brown around the edges. Can you tell me what I can do to stop this?

ANSWER: This leaf blotch is quite common on both the horse chestnut and the buckeye. Incidentally, that is one of the reasons we do not recommend either one of them for planting. It may be controlled by spraying several times during the season, starting in early July with some copper sprays such as bordeaux, Coprosil, or Cupro K.

TRUNK GIVES UP BODY OF WOMAN IN RAIL STATION

cide squad be sent to the station to investigate a trunk, which was giving off an offensive odor.

Immediately after discovery of the body, it was removed to an Atlanta funeral home, and Washington authorities were notified. Capt. B. W. Seabrook, head of the Atlanta police identification bureau, prepared to take fingerprints of the woman. The prints will be rushed to Washington in an effort to determine the woman's identity.

FOREST FIRE ENDANGERS VALUABLE TIMBER STAND

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Aug. 17—Burning over a ten-mile front, the worst fire in San Diego county since 1928 remained out of control today despite efforts of 1,200 men to check it. The fire, which has been burning steadily since Sunday, has entered Cleveland National Forest, endangering valuable stands of timber. Center of the fire is about 70 miles northeast of San Diego.

MAE MARSH BANKRUPT

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 17—Mae Marsh, early-day film actress who scored her first big hit in "The Birth of a Nation," is broke. In a federal court petition for bankruptcy today she listed her liabilities as $5250, stating that because of doctor bills and other expenses she was unable to meet her obligations.

DIES TO CHECK KUHN'S BID FOR COUGHLIN HELP

Invitation To Radio Priest Admitted In Hearing At Un-American Probe

that he had officially invited the famous priest to be a speaker at the Madison Square Garden Bund meeting in New York City last Winter which ended in a riot.

Kuhn spent a stormy five hours on the witness stand yesterday in a session which was finally climaxed by near-fisticuffs between him and a member of the committee, Rep. Starnes (D) Alabama.

The row was precipitated during testimony by Kuhn regarding his 1936 visit to Germany during which he personally conveyed to Reichsfuehrer Hitler a fund of $3,000 subscribed in the United States for German "Winter relief." Starnes endeavored to obtain from Kuhn an admission that his aims were identical with those of Hitler.

"That is an absolute lie," Kuhn shouted in reply.

"Don't you call me a liar," Starnes bellowed, and started around the table toward Kuhn who promptly rose out of his chair.

Committee members quickly quieted Starnes and two capitol policemen stepped to Kuhn's side bringing the clash to a speedy, if bloodless, end.

Earlier, the German-American Bund leader had spent a half hour expounding his theories of government and defending the policies of his organization. He claimed that, although he believed the Nazi form of government ideal for Germany, he did not think it would "fit" in the United States.

BRITISH PLANE SHIP LAUNCHES SELF IN HURRY

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, Aug. 17 — One person was reported killed, many were injured and thousands were imperiled today when the 23,000-ton aircraft carrier Formidable launched itself ahead of schedule.

The vessel broke lose and slid down the ways half an hour prior to the time set for the official launching. The accident happened when scaffolding supporting the ship suddenly broke.

Authorities said it was only by a stroke of good fortune that the warship slid into the water instead of falling over on the crowds assembled to witness the launching.

When the vessel broke loose, thousands of persons were massed along the sides of the slipways.

Hundreds of shipwrights working under the keel scrambled hurriedly to safety and scores of women fainted at the sight of the near-disaster.

With remarkable presence of mind, Lady Kingsley Wood, wife of the air secretary, made sure that the formidable was christened even though the ship's launching was ahead of schedule.

As the Formidable started to move, she crashed a bottle of champagne against its side.

NAZIS REPORTED READY TO SEEK RIGHTS IN EAST

Warsaw To Take Over Big Border Estates As "Security" Act

negotiations are opened, Hitler already has promised to give Poland commercial concessions in Danzig.)

Stories Exaggerated

The same authoritative Polish quarters today insisted that Germany had "exaggerated" stories of disturbances on the Silesian frontier.

"Quiet and order prevail in the frontier districts," it was asserted. "German reports of arrests and malteatment are exaggerated. Arrests have been made only in cases where members of the German minority in Poland were suspected of espionage on behalf of Germany or subversive activity."

One case mentioned was that of Senator Rudolph Wiesner, chief of the Young German Party, who was arrested on charges of having connections with spying circles. He was released with several other Germans today.

Warsaw authorities, however, admitted that some minority Germans had been roughly treated when they "bragged about Germany and used threats against Poland."

BERLIN, Aug. 17—Unconditional return of Danzig to the Reich and "resettlement" of the Polish Corridor problem today were declared on high authority to constitute Gemany's revised demands on Poland.

Regarding Danzig, the Reich stands firmly on Chancellor Hitler's speech before the Reichstag last April, and on the "self-determination" principles of President Wilson's fourteen points.

(In April Hitler demanded anschluss with Danzig, as a German city, and an extra-territorial route across the Polish Corridor. In retun, he offered Poland trade concessions on the Baltic and a 25-year non-agression pact.)

BIGELOW'S PLAN HIT AS BOARDS REMOVE NAMES

COLUMBUS, Aug. 17—Demand for an investigation of signatures on the Bigelow $50-a-month pension plan petitions in Williams county was made today as a checkup revealed that 39 percent of the signatures favoring a referendum on the proposal had been declared invalid in 10 counties.

Charges that two or more names were written by the same person on the Williams county petitions were made to the local board of elections by Former Jupdge C. L. Newcomer. He asked that F. E. Palmer, who swore to seven of the lists, be called in for questioning. The board asked Secretary of State Earl Griffith what action to take.

Meanwhile, election boards in other counties continued to check petitions as deficiencies were reported by the following counties, an average of 39 percent:

Paulding county highest with 80 percent invalid; Muskingum lowest with only seven percent; Defiance, 60; Wayne, 68; Guernsey, 59; Columbiana, 26; Perry, 18; Coshocton, 25; Knox, 36 and Monroe 26.

Between 80,000 and 90,000 signatures would be lost should the present ratio be maintained in other counties, the secretary of state's office said. That would mean the constitutional amendment would not go on the November ballot unless the invalidated names were replaced.

THE GARDEN CLINIC

By VICTOR H. RIES,
O. S. U. floriculturist

QUESTION: I wish to plant some daffodils this Fall and would like to know what varieties you would recommend that would not be too expensive.

ANSWER: Those that I have found very satsifactory and and which, with the selection of varieties, will give a long period of bloom are Golden Spur, Aerolite, Van Waveren's Giant, Nette O'Melven, Lord Kitchener, Ornatus Maximus, Bath's Flame, Seagull, Croesus, Queen of the North, John Evelyn, Sir Watkin, Will Scarlett, Golden Sceptre, Odorus Orange Queen, and Laurens Koster.

QUESTION: I am interested in specie tulips. In looking over the bulb catalogue which I just received I find there are a number of different ones listed and would like to know which ones you would recommend.

ANSWED: The two most satisfactory of all the species are Kaufmanniana and Sylvestris. Both of these seem to be rather permanent in most gardens. You will also find Clusiana will stay with you quite a while. Another that I found rather satisfactory although less common is Praestans.

QUESTION: We have just purchased a new home and in planning for trees to plant this Fall would like to know if you would recommend we plant a weeping willow in the front lawn.

ANSWER: Unless you have a very large yard you will find the weeping willow will take up most of your front lawn. Remember that when it is full grown it is going to cover an area 50 feet in diameter with the branches hanging down to the ground. This is hardly satisfactory for the average yard.

QUESTION: A man came by the other day with a truck load of evergreens offering to tell me what to plant and to plant them. Do you think I would be safe in getting these?

ANSWER: Ordinarily, the men peddling evergreens from trucks know no more about what evergreens you should plant and how to plant them than the average man does about crocheting. My advice is to go directly to some nearby nursery where, if the stock purchased is not satisfactory, you will know to whom to take your complaint. Most people who purchase from itinerant truck peddlers get gloriously stung.

QUESTION: Since in a recent Clinic you said you would not be able to furnish landscape services to those requesting it, would you recommend that I get a local man who is doing lawn grading and sodding to plan my yard for me?

ANSWER: I certainly would not. I would want to get a qualified landscape gardener or landscape architect to go to a nursery which employed a landscape gardener. You will find in the end that it is cheaper to employ someone who knows something about landscaping. You will save the cost of their fee in the saving of the plants you purchase. The ignorant landscape man will use the wrong kind of plants, will put in about twice as many as you need, with the result that you will have to do it all over again in a few years.

QUESTION: I wish to put in a hedge along the front of my yard and would like to know if you would recommend the redleafed Japanese barberry.

ANSWER: Although the redleafed Japanese barberry is a lovely shrub, I certainly would not want as much red foliage as you would have if you planted an entire hedge of this shrub. At most you would want but two or three plants around the average yard as a color accent.

QUESTION: We are planning on reseeding our lawn this Fall and the local hardware man has recommended Chewing's fescue. Does this make a good lawn?

ANSWER: Chewing's fescue is the best grass for a shaded lawn. However, in sunny places I believe you will find you will much prefer the texture and color of Kentucky bluegrass.

QUESTION: I am making a gray garden and would like to know what gray foliage shrubs I might use as background.

ANSWER: For this purpose I would recommend the Rosemary willow, the Russian olive, and its sister plants, Eleagnus umbellata and Elongipes.

QUESTION: The leaves of the horse chestnut tree in my yard are turning brown around the edges. Can you tell me what I can do to stop this?

ANSWER: This leaf blotch is quite common on both the horse chestnut and the buckeye. Incidentally, that is one of the reasons we do not recommend either one of them for planting. It may be controlled by spraying several times during the season, starting in early July with some copper sprays such as bordeaux, Coprosil, or Cupro K.

DIES TO CHECK KUHN'S BID FOR COUGHLIN HELP

Invitation To Radio Priest Admitted In Hearing At Un-American Probe

that he had officially invited the famous priest to be a speaker at the Madison Square Garden Bund meeting in New York City last Winter which ended in a riot.

Kuhn spent a stormy five hours on the witness stand yesterday in a session which was finally climaxed by near-fisticuffs between him and a member of the committee, Rep. Starnes (D) Alabama.

The row was precipitated during testimony by Kuhn regarding his 1936 visit to Germany during which he personally conveyed to Reichsfuehrer Hitler a fund of $3,000 subscribed in the United States for German "Winter relief." Starnes endeavored to obtain from Kuhn an admission that his aims were identical with those of Hitler.

"That is an absolute lie," Kuhn shouted in reply.

"Don't you call me a liar," Starnes bellowed, and started around the table toward Kuhn who promptly rose out of his chair.

Committee members quickly quieted Starnes and two capitol policemen stepped to Kuhn's side bringing the clash to a speedy, if bloodless, end.

Earlier, the German-American Bund leader had spent a half hour expounding his theories of government and defending the policies of his organization. He claimed that, although he believed the Nazi form of government ideal for Germany, he did not think it would "fit" in the United States.

Tiger Mentor Calls Squad

Black To Meet Football Prospects Monday At 2 P. M.; Nine Games On Schedule

Circleville high school grid hopefuls were notified Thursday by Coach Roy M. Black to report at the high school at 2 p. m. next Monday to prepare for practice sessions that will lead to the first football game of the season.

The Tiger mentor has been busy in the locker room for the last several days getting equipment ready for distribution.

"I hope that all boys who can possibly make it will report Monday," the coach said. "We have a long way to go before we are ready to put our team on the field, and every practice session will be of utmost importance."

The Red and Black coach has many holes to fill in his starting lineup, graduation having taken many veterans.

A large quantity of new equipment has been purchased by the athletic association in preparation for the year's campaign.

The Tigers will be engaging in the South Central Ohio League again after a lapse of 10 years. In this loop are Washington C. H., Greenfield, Hillsboro and Wilmington, in addition to the Tigers. Washington C. H. and Greenfield will be met on the local field, the other two league foes being opposed on foreign fields.

Other teams to provide opposition for the Red and Black include Columbus Rosary, West Jefferson, Bremen, Frankfort and Lancaster, the latter game coming early in the season on the Fairfield county field.

A movement is under way to sell reserved season tickets, but nothing definite has been worked out as yet.

All home games will be played at night, the Bremen contest on the first night of Pumpkin Show.

PICKAWAY CLUB GOLFERS AHEAD

Washington C. H. Defeated By 15 Points In Contest

Pickaway Country Club members won a 15-point advantage over the Washington C. H. team, Wednesday, in a match on the local course. Team scores were 49½ and 34½. This match evens the series with Washington C. H.

Tony Capuano, Washington pro, was low for the day with 74; Bill Bowman, of the local club, had a 76; Bob Friece, a 78, and Rolland Cornwell, 79. This foresome broke even in points.

Club members who expect to go to the Army Country Club next Sunday for the match there are urged to notify Pro Bowman so an estimate can be gained of the number making the trip. London will invade the local course on Aug. 23.

Scores of Circleville golfers and their points follow: Gilliland, 90, 2; Gilmore, 89, 1; Clayton, 102, ½; Tireco, 105, 0; R. Tales In Tidbits

By William Ritt

The scales, it seems, are Henry Armstrong's worst enemy. . . . Hennery had to forfeit the featherweight crown because he couldn't make the weight after taking that title from Petey Sarron. . . . And now he's on the verge of having to forfeit his lightweight mantle to Lou Ambers for the same reason. . . . But Henry should worry—he would still be welterweight champion.

Old Chief Bender, the one-time Mackian mound star, is now a scout working for his old boss, the ailing Connie. . . . But it's only a part-time job with the Chief. . . . His regular post is in a Philadelphia haberdashery where, we learn, he does quite well.

Professional football is now of age. . . . Otherwise why would newspapers send sport writers to cover the training camps? . . . As certain Washington gazettes are doing in the case of the Redskins?

Another Ruffing is making his way in the baseball world. . . . He is not a relative of the Yankee's capable Red.

Silver, Gold Hawkeyes

There ought to be plenty dough for the school in that 1939 University of Iowa football team. . . . Unless colors are deceiving. . . . The Iowans will be garbed next Autumn in silver-colored pants and gold-tinted helmets. . . . And black jerseys for contrast.

Keeneland park and Delaware park are the answers to the horse players' dreams. . . . These two tracks are run by non-profit-making outfits. . . . All income goes into maintenance and purses.

Not all the diamond courage which thrills fans is found in professional baseball. . . . Paul Winhold, a Pittsburgh, Pa., sandlot hurler, pitched seven innings after fracturing his leg.

That Yankee "murderers' row" of the last decade and a half has been largely a myth. . . . In the last 15 years the Yanks have turned out only two league batting champions—Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig.

NATE ANDREWS GOOD AS BIRDS BUMP LEADERS

COLUMBUS, Aug. 17 — The Kansas City Blues' lead in the American association race was trimmed to one game today through the pitching of Nate Andrews, of the Columbus Red Birds, who handed them a 3 to 2 defeat.

It was the second consecutive victory for the seventh place Birds over the league leaders and gave the Ohio team the series. Today the Birds were to meet Milwaukee as the Blues moved in on the Toledo Mud Hens.

Andrews allowed only eight hits. He is to leave the Birds soon to join the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Minneapolis Millers moved back toward the top of the association ladder by defeating Indianapolis 4 to 0. The teams have two more tilts to play in Minneapolis to settle a 10-10 tie in the number of games won in their contests this season.

At Toledo the Mud Hens nosed out Milwaukee 5 to 4. Victory came in the last half of the eighth, when Les Fleming hit a homer with Joe Dwyer on.

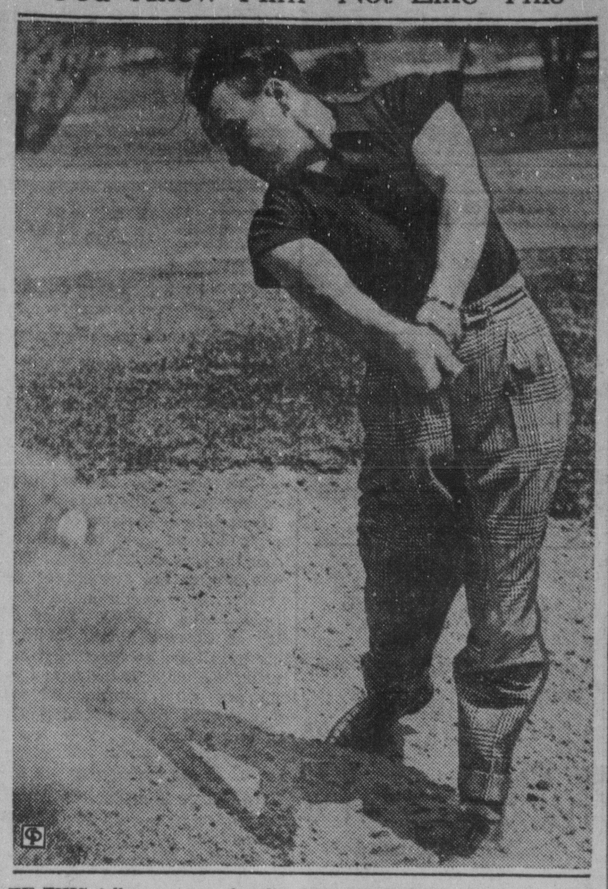
You Knew Him—Not Like This



IF THIS fellow appears familiar but out of place you're on the right track. For it is Jimmy McLarnin, the former boxing star, who is fast becoming a topnotcher in the game of golf. Jimmy, shown blasting during the Riviera Country Club invitation tourney at Beverly Hills, Cal., recently shot a sub-par 70 to win a tourney at his home club.

Cincinnati Finds Going Tough; Cards Have Hopes

By Pat Robinson

NEW YORK, Aug. 17—Perhaps Bill McKechnie had the right hunch about the month of August. You will recall the smooth-working pilot of the Reds said some time ago that August, rather than September, would see the pennant clinched.

Perhaps Bill had in mind his long home stand next month and figured that if his club could hold up through August it would certainly stand the gaff through September.

The Reds have shown no signs of cracking but they are finding the going a little rougher than they did some time ago. Today only five games separates them from the fast-moving Cardinals in the games lost column. That gap could be closed in a hurry if the Reds should falter on their impending swing through the East and the Cards keep up their present pace.

McKechnie's hopefuls dropped a game and a half yesterday when the Cubs trimmed them, 2-1, while the Cards were taking a pair from the peaceful Pirates, 4-3 and 3-0.

Bucky Walters gave the Cubs only five hits in striving for his 21st victory of the season but one of those was Augie Galan's homer and that smash beat him.

Cards Dashing

The Cards finally have become convinced that they stand a good chance to cop the flag and they are playing with the dash and fire of players who can scent that World Series coin in the offing.

They came from behind to take the first game on two home runs by Terry Moore and the second game went their way when Fiddler McGee held the Bucs to three little hits.

The Bees and Phils split a pair, the former winning, 9-2, behind Bill Posedel and the latter counting, 3-2, behind Hugh Mulcahy.

The Giants helped the Dodgers boost their home attendance up near the 800,000 mark and incidentally handed the home guard a beating, 7-3. The Dodgers did a little finishing themselves on Cliff Melton but by that time the game was already in the bag for the Giants.

The Yanks picked up half a game on the idle Red Sox by beating their old nemesis, Dutch Leonard and the Senators, 4-0. Dutch had trimmed the Yanks four times hand running and he gave them only six hits yesterday but three of these were Joe DiMaggio's 17th homer, a double and single by the same jolting hombre and those were more than enough.

Marius Russo Strong

Meanwhile, Marius Russo, young lefthander, was indicating that Joe McCarthy still has plenty of pitching on tap for the rush to the wire. Russo gave only four hits and was never in danger. His job, plus Left Gomez' 3-hit performance the previous day, spell-bad news for the trailing Bosox.

LONDON DRIVER AT BONNEVILLE FOR SPEED TEST

WENDOVER, Utah, Aug. 17—John Cobb, London fur broker and noted speed racer, will test his big "Railton Red Lion" over the Bonneville salt flats tomorrow instead of today, as he had planned.

Cobb said this morning that the 2,600-horsepower speedster, with which he hopes to set a new world's speed record, had just been uncrated and will not be tuned up and ready for trial runs for another 24 hours. The daring driver first plans to test the turtle-shaped machine to "see how it works" and then possibly make the official speed run Saturday morning.

Cobb last Summer set a new world's speed mark for the measured mile at 350 miles an hour, only to lose it the next day to Capt. George Eyston, also of England, who raced 357.7 miles per hour. It is this mark that Cobb will attempt to surpass.

REDS LOSE 2-1, DROP GAME AND HALF TO CARDS

Augie Galan Crashes Home Run To Defeat Bucky Walters' Noble Try

CINCINNATI, Aug. 17 — The Cincinnati Reds faltered again in the National league pennant race today as they marked up a 2 to 1 defeat at the hands of the Chicago Cubs that cut their lead to six games.

The drop resulted from the defeat and the fact that the second-place St. Louis Cardinals trimmed the Pirates at Pittsburgh in a doubleheader, 4 to 3 and 3 to 0.

Augie Galan, Cubs' left fielder, was responsible for the victory over the Rhinelanders. A double and a home run did the trick.

Bucky Walters held Chicago hitless for five innings and then allowed only five safeties, but Galan's blows spelled defeat for the league-leading pitcher. He has eight defeats and 20 victories to his credit.

Claude Passeau pitched for the Bruins and allowed eight scattered hits.

The two teams were to meet under lights tonight and the Cards were to play Pittsburgh again.

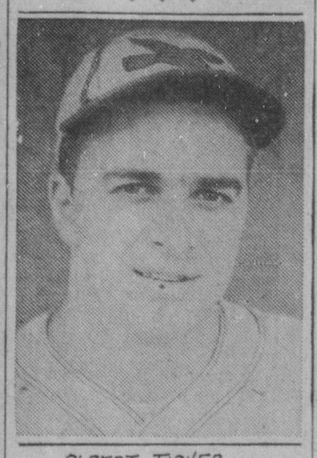
Red Birds Improve As Western Clubs Invade

COLUMBUS, Aug. 17—A revamped lineup and improved pitching has made the Columbus Red Birds the most talked-of club in the eastern division of the American Association. In the midst of a series of well-pitched games the flock is making its stand against Western clubs for the last time at Red Bird Stadium. Following the Kansas City Blues to the Mound street lot are Milwaukees' Brewers who play a two-game series Thursday and Friday. Thursday will be Al Schacht Night and the famous baseball comedian, assisted by the Championship Knot Hole Gang band will entertain the crowd.



ALBERT FISHER —PITCHER—

On Saturday the slugging Minneapolis Millers come to town for four games in two days. Double headers are slated for Saturday and Sunday and the Birds hope to break the jinx held over them by Tom Sheehan's crew. Saturday will be Mayor's Day with city bosses guests of the city of Columbus, the Southern Hotel and the Columbus Baseball Club. Both twin bills will get under way at 1:30 o'clock.

Following the Millers to Columbus will be the St. Paul Champs, who appear in three games in two days. On Monday afternoon another Family Day will be held, bargain prices prevailing. Tuesday night will be radio appreciation and New York Central night, with a big turnout expected. The double bill will get under way at 8 o'clock.

Praise for his all-round play is being heaped on Al Fisher, made-over first sacker, as the Birds gain strength. Fisher, new to the initial sack, has learned many of the tricks familiar to infielders and at the same time has continued a brand of long distance clouting that has given him a leading spot among American Association hitters. The ex-hurler is batting over .350 and boasts a high average of runs batted in.

AMBERS WORKING ON POWER WITH TITLE GO NEAR

CARMEL, N. Y., Aug. 17—Believing he has an excellent chance of regaining the lightweight title via the knockout route, Lou Ambers today was sacrificing some of his speed for punch and power in training for his meeting with Henry Armstrong at the Yankee stadium on Tuesday night.

No longer does he hop and dance in and out against his sparring partners. Instead, he shuffles into his mates and sets more as he delivers his punches. As a result, naturally, he is hitting harder than ever.

Lou always had a good right uppercut. He is now endeavoring to perfect a left uppercut. There is no doubt that he plans to make an uppercut offensive against the little colored lad who grabbed his title away from him last August, after one of the greatest lightweight title battles of all times.

Ambers, too, has been working with enthusiasm on a few of the tricks taught him by Jack Dempsey when the Manassa Mauler visited the camp the other day.

The fine resulted from DiMaggio's action in protesting "too vigorously" a third strike called by Umpire Jocko Conlon in a game against Columbus.

Tiger Mentor Calls Squad

Black To Meet Football Prospects Monday At 2 P. M.; Nine Games On Schedule

Circleville high school grid hopefuls were notified Thursday by Coach Roy M. Black to report at the high school at 2 p. m. next Monday to prepare for practice sessions that will lead to the first football game of the season.

The Tiger mentor has been busy in the locker room for the last several days getting equipment ready for distribution.

"I hope that all boys who can possibly make it will report Monday," the coach said. "We have a long way to go before we are ready to put our team on the field, and every practice session will be of utmost importance."

The Red and Black coach has many holes to fill in his starting lineup, graduation having taken many veterans.

A large quantity of new equipment has been purchased by the athletic association in preparation for the year's campaign.

The Tigers will be engaging in the South Central Ohio League again after a lapse of 10 years. In this loop are Washington C. H., Greenfield, Hillsboro and Wilmington, in addition to the Tigers. Washington C. H. and Greenfield will be met on the local field, the other two league foes being opposed on foreign fields.

Other teams to provide opposition for the Red and Black include Columbus Rosary, West Jefferson, Bremen, Frankfort and Lancaster, the latter game coming early in the season on the Fairfield county field.

A movement is under way to sell reserved season tickets, but nothing definite has been worked out as yet.

All home games will be played at night, the Bremen contest on the first night of Pumpkin Show.

Tales In Tidbits

By William Ritt

The scales, it seems, are Henry Armstrong's worst enemy. . . . Hennery had to forfeit the featherweight crown because he couldn't make the weight after taking that title from Petey Sarron. . . . And now he's on the verge of having to forfeit his lightweight mantle to Lou Ambers for the same reason. . . . But Henry should worry—he would still be welterweight champion.

Old Chief Bender, the one-time Mackian mound star, is now a scout working for his old boss, the ailing Connie. . . . But it's only a part-time job with the Chief. . . . His regular post is in a Philadelphia haberdashery where, we learn, he does quite well.

Professional football is now of age. . . . Otherwise why would newspapers send sport writers to cover the training camps? . . . As certain Washington gazettes are doing in the case of the Redskins?

Another Ruffing is making his way in the baseball world. . . . He is not a relative of the Yankee's capable Red.

Silver, Gold Hawkeyes

There ought to be plenty dough for the school in that 1939 University of Iowa football team. . . . Unless colors are deceiving. . . . The Iowans will be garbed next Autumn in silver-colored pants and gold-tinted helmets. . . . And black jerseys for contrast.

Keeneland park and Delaware park are the answers to the horse players' dreams. . . . These two tracks are run by non-profit-making outfits. . . . All income goes into maintenance and purses.

Not all the diamond courage which thrills fans is found in professional baseball. . . . Paul Winhold, a Pittsburgh, Pa., sandlot hurler, pitched seven innings after fracturing his leg.

That Yankee "murderers' row" of the last decade and a half has been largely a myth. . . . In the last 15 years the Yanks have turned out only two league batting champions—Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig.

NATE ANDREWS GOOD AS BIRDS BUMP LEADERS

COLUMBUS, Aug. 17 — The Kansas City Blues' lead in the American association race was trimmed to one game today through the pitching of Nate Andrews, of the Columbus Red Birds, who handed them a 3 to 2 defeat.

It was the second consecutive victory for the seventh place Birds over the league leaders and gave the Ohio team the series. Today the Birds were to meet Milwaukee as the Blues moved in on the Toledo Mud Hens.

Andrews allowed only eight hits. He is to leave the Birds soon to join the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Minneapolis Millers moved back toward the top of the association ladder by defeating Indianapolis 4 to 0. The teams have two more tilts to play in Minneapolis to settle a 10-10 tie in the number of games won in their contests this season.

At Toledo the Mud Hens nosed out Milwaukee 5 to 4. Victory came in the last half of the eighth, when Les Fleming hit a homer with Joe Dwyer on.

IF THIS fellow appears familiar but out of place you're on the right track. For it is Jimmy McLarnin, the former boxing star, who is fast becoming a topnotcher in the game of golf. Jimmy, shown blasting during the Riviera Country Club invitation tourney at Beverly Hills, Cal., recently shot a sub-par 70 to win a tourney at his home club.

Cincinnati Finds Going Tough; Cards Have Hopes

By Pat Robinson

NEW YORK, Aug. 17—Perhaps Bill McKechnie had the right hunch about the month of August. You will recall the smooth-working pilot of the Reds said some time ago that August, rather than September, would see the pennant clinched.

Perhaps Bill had in mind his long home stand next month and figured that if his club could hold up through August it would certainly stand the gaff through September.

The Reds have shown no signs of cracking but they are finding the going a little rougher than they did some time ago. Today only five games separates them from the fast-moving Cardinals in the games lost column. That gap could be closed in a hurry if the Reds should falter on their impending swing through the East and the Cards keep up their present pace.

McKechnie's hopefuls dropped a game and a half yesterday when the Cubs trimmed them, 2-1, while the Cards were taking a pair from the peaceful Pirates, 4-3 and 3-0.

Bucky Walters gave the Cubs only five hits in striving for his 21st victory of the season but one of those was Augie Galan's homer and that smash beat him.

Cards Dashing

The Cards finally have become convinced that they stand a good chance to cop the flag and they are playing with the dash and fire of players who can scent that World Series coin in the offing.

They came from behind to take the first game on two home runs by Terry Moore and the second game went their way when Fiddler McGee held the Bucs to three little hits.

The Bees and Phils split a pair, the former winning, 9-2, behind Bill Posedel and the latter counting, 3-2, behind Hugh Mulcahy.

The Giants helped the Dodgers boost their home attendance up near the 800,000 mark and incidentally handed the home guard a beating, 7-3. The Dodgers did a little finishing themselves on Cliff Melton but by that time the game was already in the bag for the Giants.

The Yanks picked up half a game on the idle Red Sox by beating their old nemesis, Dutch Leonard and the Senators, 4-0. Dutch had trimmed the Yanks four times hand running and he gave them only six hits yesterday but three of these were Joe DiMaggio's 17th homer, a double and single by the same jolting hombre and those were more than enough.

Marius Russo Strong

Meanwhile, Marius Russo, young lefthander, was indicating that Joe McCarthy still has plenty of pitching on tap for the rush to the wire. Russo gave only four hits and was never in danger. His job, plus Left Gomez' 3-hit performance the previous day, spell-bad news for the trailing Bosox.

LONDON DRIVER AT BONNEVILLE FOR SPEED TEST

WENDOVER, Utah, Aug. 17—John Cobb, London fur broker and noted speed racer, will test his big "Railton Red Lion" over the Bonneville salt flats tomorrow instead of today, as he had planned.

Cobb said this morning that the 2,600-horsepower speedster, with which he hopes to set a new world's speed record, had just been uncrated and will not be tuned up and ready for trial runs for another 24 hours. The daring driver first plans to test the turtle-shaped machine to "see how it works" and then possibly make the official speed run Saturday morning.

Cobb last Summer set a new world's speed mark for the measured mile at 350 miles an hour, only to lose it the next day to Capt. George Eyston, also of England, who raced 357.7 miles per hour. It is this mark that Cobb will attempt to surpass.

STARS IN TOURNEY

ST. JOHN, N. B., Aug. 17—Ralph Guldahl, Gene Sarazen, Dick Metz and Jimmy Thomson are among the eighty-five golfers who tee off today for the Canadian Open golf championship now held by Sammy Snead. The latter is not defending.

AMBERS WORKING ON POWER WITH TITLE GO NEAR

CARMEL, N. Y., Aug. 17—Believing he has an excellent chance of regaining the lightweight title via the knockout route, Lou Ambers today was sacrificing some of his speed for punch and power in training for his meeting with Henry Armstrong at the Yankee stadium on Tuesday night.

No longer does he hop and dance in and out against his sparring partners. Instead, he shuffles into his mates and sets more as he delivers his punches. As a result, naturally, he is hitting harder than ever.

Lou always had a good right uppercut. He is now endeavoring to perfect a left uppercut. There is no doubt that he plans to make an uppercut offensive against the little colored lad who grabbed his title away from him last August, after one of the greatest lightweight title battles of all times.

Ambers, too, has been working with enthusiasm on a few of the tricks taught him by Jack Dempsey when the Manassa Mauler visited the camp the other day.

The Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

the amount of business coming in, and fixes the rate accordingly. The bookmaker can't protest because Annenberg has a monopoly, and without Annenberg's service, the bookie would have a hard time keeping up with his business.

Some idea of the size of Annenberg's income can be gathered from the fact that Chicago's 2,000 bookies pay an average of $80 weekly. This would make Moe's weekly take $160,000—from the city of Chicago alone. Multiply this by all the other cities where racing is a major industry and you can see why Internal Revenue agents have been watching Moe for four years.

RACE-FIXING

No charge is made that Annenberg fixes races. In fact, he refrains from betting. However, it is true that races are fixed today to an extent beyond the public's imagination, and the fast delivery of racing information improves the technique.

Owners or racing stables are divided into two classes: those who run their horses to win; and those who "run on the money." The former group includes such men as Colonel Bradley and Alfred Vanderbilt, who instruct their trainers always to enter a horse to win. Their betting is on the level.

The second group, much larger, is known in the bookie world as "the burglars." They run their horses to win when the race is fixed, and when the odds are such that it is profitable for the horse to win.

Every big bookie knows that when three or more of the "burglars" have entered horses in a race, the race is fixed. And the horse selected to win is the horse which pays the biggest money.

If the fixers or this race went to the track and placed their bets through the pari-mutuels, the betting odds on the selected horse would drop immediately. Also the public would know that a sizeable amount of cash had been placed on that horse, the "fix" would leak out, and the winner's take would be smaller.

CONCEALING THE BET

So the betting is done not at the track, but away from the track, through the thousands of bookie establishments which the Annenberg racetrack service has helped make possible.

Take, for example, an actual race which was fixed last Winter. It was pulled by a big syndicate which fixes about ten races a year, spend several weeks and uses the utmost care in preparing each fix. In this race, the syndicate approached the owners of the most promising horses, and offered to give each a $500 bet on the winner if their jockeys trailed the winner. The horse they selected would usually be a 10 to 1 long shot.

Then having fixed the race, the problem was to distribute the bets without the rest of the gambling world knowing about it. This was done through a betting commissioner. He cut the money up into amounts so small they attracted no attention, and distributed them to small bookies from coast to coast.

These little fellows are never in on a "fix" and don't know what has hit them when called to pay off 11to 1. That was about what the horse paid in this particular race—$23.80 for a $2 bet. The syndicate has invested $11,000, so you can figure up its winnings.

Race track fixing of this type—and it is practised on a wholesale scale—would be unprofitable if the money was not concealed by distribution through the thousands of bookmakers built up through us of the Annenberg racing news service. Without the present far-flung bookie establishments, betting would have to be confined chiefly to the track, where a "fix" is more easily detected.

BRITAIN'S WAR PLANE OUTPUT NEARS RECORD

LONDON, Aug. 17 — Great Britain, one of the last countries to get started in the mad European scramble for aerial rearmament, today reportedly had thrown her production machinery into high gear with the net result that the monthly output of fighting planes has now leaped to 750.

According to conservative estimates, made by officials close to the Air Ministry, it is believed that by September British production will be on a par with that of the German Reich — 1,000 planes a month.

Interviewed on Britain's present air strength, Sir Kingsley Wood, Air Minister, revealed that the number of workers in the plane producing manufacturing industries had more than doubled in the past two years.

"Deliveries increased 100 percent from January to the beginning of this month," Sir Kingsley stated, "and our present production is well ahead of schedule."

'Shadow Factories'

In addition to regular production concerns, the government has instituted a plan for the establishment of 'shadow factories" — factories linked with automobile concerns, which, in the event of war can immediately begin turning out airplane engines.

The present factories are functioning on a "war time basis" with crews turning out planes, and their parts, night and day.

According to Sir Kingsley, no difficulty is being encountered in keeping up the number of pilots, and ground men, in ratio to the increasing output of planes.

100,000 On Air Force

"During the last two years," he said, "we have achieved the largest expansion of personnel in time of peace ever witnessed in the Royal Aid Force. The man power of the R.A.F., alone is now well over 100,000 men.

"We haven't only added to the number of our pilots. We have added a large force of men to carry out the multitudinous services required to maintain a modern air force. I don't supose the public always realize that for every man who goes up in the air something like nine are needed to provide the necessary ground organization."

Britain, at present, has 10,000 pilots on the active list. This is augmented by several thousands members of the volunteer Civil Air Guard, and those who have left the R.A.F. to return to civil life.

Answers Criticism

Asked to comment on the oft-rised point that England has concentrated too much on defensive type of planes, rather than attack, Sir Kingsley replied:

"We have built and are building a balanced air force. We have increased our fighter strength, but not at the expense of the counter-offensive bombers. Wars cannot be won by defensive forces alone.

"The counter-offensive bomber is a powerful deterrent for any one contemplating war. But if it should fail to deter the attacker and war does come it is a vital means of defending him."

AUTOIST SKIPS BILL

The sheriff's department and highway patrolmen were unsuccessful Wednesday night in a search for a motorist who failed to pay $1.70 for gasoline purchased at the Gold Cliff Pure Oil station. The motorist, driving a 1934 Chevrolet two door sedan, with Pennsylvania license, purchased the gasoline about 8 o'clock, then drove away from the station without paying Harley Sparks, attendant. The station is operated by Orren Stout.

Life grows simpler. You can make almost anything nowadays out of coal, sour milk or soy beans.

BRITAIN MOVES TO RETAIN LEAD IN NAVY POWER

Building Program Launched; Three Months To See Many New Ships

AVIATION PUT ASIDE

Need For More Submarines Added Strength In East Discussed

LONDON, Aug. 17—Aviation inferiority today was ignored as England reasserted its traditional supremacy on the waves.

This was strikingly revealed with the official admission that more battleships will be launched during the next three months than ever before in a similar period in British history.

The recent launching of the battleship, King George the V, by the King at Tyneside represented the first floating of a capital ship for the British Navy during the last 14 years. A sister ship, the Prince of Wales, was launched at Birkenhead.

Two destroyers, the Kashmir and the Kandahar, were launched in the early Summer, and the Phoebe, a new cruiser, was able to take the water at the same time.

Four Guns in a Turret

The King George the V is the first British battleship to mount its guns four in a turret. One quadruple turret forward will be surmounted by a twin mounting, and the other quadruple will be in the rear, giving a total of ten guns. The British Navy has not had a ten-gun battleship since the War, and it has only been made possible in this case on the limited displacement of 35,000 tons by the adoption of the new 14-inch gun instead of the 16-inch.

The difference in weight between the two types of gun with their mountings is considerable, but in actual volume of fire the new ships will be only a few pounds below the Nelson and the Rodney, owing to the additional number of guns carried, and will have a higher rate at rounds fired per minute.

The armour of the new ships will be a 14-inch belt with a six and one quarter inch deck for protection against bombs and plunging fire, while the armour of the gun turrets is given as 16-inch.

Effectiveness Not Established

Experiment has proved that modern armour of five inches will keep out all bombs up to 1,000 lb., but its effectiveness against a 2,400 pound shell falling at a steep angle is not definitely established, and, as it is thought that all future naval actions will be fought at the limit of visibility, all salvos from big guns will fall from above as if from airplanes.

Because of new range distances, a square hit is considered a thing of the past in modern naval warfare.

The British Navy, in the opinion of most experts, is still weak on two points; defense of Imperial possessions in the Far East, and in submarines.

Nevertheless, while a comparison of its navy of 1935-36—the period of the Mediterranean crisis—and 1939 shows no great increase in the numbers of ships, the interval has brought an incalculable improvement in all-around fighting power. Progress in low and high-angle gunnery has been good, due mainly to new guns, new amunition, and new fire control methods, lately introduced. It is probable that only the American fleet, for example, is better equipped to repel aircraft attack.

Fleet Training Improved

The tactical training of the fleet today is at a higher level than in 1935, owing to the increased fuel allowance which enables ships to exercise at sea more frequently and at higher speeds. Special attention is paid to anti-submarine methods, which are developing rapidly.

The submarine question is still a problem, however, and many naval officers are urging that provision be made at once for a large number of medium-sized destroyers—from 600 to 900 tons—with special anti-submarine equipment, the torpedo armament being subordinated to guns and depth charges. Some believe that the so-called motor torpedo boat has a big future as an anti-submarine weapon.

HORSE REVERSES ROLE

VANCOUVER—Aunne Faubin, a packer for the Columbia National Forest, set out to break a horse for his pack string, but the horse broke him.

Faubion succeeded in riding the spirited horse, but the animal plunged off a high bank and landed on top of its rider at the bottom of a ravine. Faubion escaped uninjured.

The killing of a falcon was a crime punishable by death in the reign of King Edward III of England.

The Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

the amount of business coming in, and fixes the rate accordingly. The bookmaker can't protest because Annenberg has a monopoly, and without Annenberg's service, the bookie would have a hard time keeping up with his business.

Some idea of the size of Annenberg's income can be gathered from the fact that Chicago's 2,000 bookies pay an average of $80 weekly. This would make Moe's weekly take $160,000—from the city of Chicago alone. Multiply this by all the other cities where racing is a major industry and you can see why Internal Revenue agents have been watching Moe for four years.

RACE-FIXING

No charge is made that Annenberg fixes races. In fact, he refrains from betting. However, it is true that races are fixed today to an extent beyond the public's imagination, and the fast delivery of racing information improves the technique.

Owners or racing stables are divided into two classes: those who run their horses to win; and those who "run on the money." The former group includes such men as Colonel Bradley and Alfred Vanderbilt, who instruct their trainers always to enter a horse to win. Their betting is on the level.

The second group, much larger, is known in the bookie world as "the burglars." They run their horses to win when the race is fixed, and when the odds are such that it is profitable for the horse to win.

Every big bookie knows that when three or more of the "burglars" have entered horses in a race, the race is fixed. And the horse selected to win is the horse which pays the biggest money.

If the fixers or this race went to the track and placed their bets through the pari-mutuels, the betting odds on the selected horse would drop immediately. Also the public would know that a sizeable amount of cash had been placed on that horse, the "fix" would leak out, and the winner's take would be smaller.

CONCEALING THE BET

So the betting is done not at the track, but away from the track, through the thousands of bookie establishments which the Annenberg racetrack service has helped make possible.

Take, for example, an actual race which was fixed last Winter. It was pulled by a big syndicate which fixes about ten races a year, spend several weeks and uses the utmost care in preparing each fix. In this race, the syndicate approached the owners of the most promising horses, and offered to give each a $500 bet on the winner if their jockeys trailed the winner. The horse they selected would usually be a 10 to 1 long shot.

Then having fixed the race, the problem was to distribute the bets without the rest of the gambling world knowing about it. This was done through a betting commissioner. He cut the money up into amounts so small they attracted no attention, and distributed them to small bookies from coast to coast.

These little fellows are never in on a "fix" and don't know what has hit them when called to pay off 11to 1. That was about what the horse paid in this particular race—$23.80 for a $2 bet. The syndicate has invested $11,000, so you can figure up its winnings.

Race track fixing of this type —and it is practised on a wholesale scale—would be unprofitable if the money was not concealed by distribution through the thousands of bookmakers built up through us of the Annenberg racing news service. Without the present far-flung bookie establishments, betting would have to be confined chiefly to the track, where a "fix" is more easily detected.

BRITAIN'S WAR PLANE OUTPUT NEARS RECORD

LONDON, Aug. 17 — Great Britain, one of the last countries to get started in the mad European scramble for aerial rearmament, today reportedly had thrown her production machinery into high gear with the net result that the monthly output of fighting planes has now leaped to 750.

According to conservative estimates, made by officials close to the Air Ministry, it is believed that by September British production will be on a par with that of the German Reich — 1,000 planes a month.

Interviewed on Britain's present air strength, Sir Kingsley Wood, Air Minister, revealed that the number of workers in the plane producing manufacturing industries had more than doubled in the past two years.

"Deliveries increased 100 percent from January to the beginning of this month," Sir Kingsley stated, "and our present production is well ahead of schedule."

'Shadow Factories'

In addition to regular production concerns, the government has instituted a plan for the establishment of 'shadow factories" — factories linked with automobile concerns, which, in the event of war can immediately begin turning out airplane engines.

The present factories are functioning on a "war time basis" with crews turning out planes, and their parts, night and day.

According to Sir Kingsley, no difficulty is being encountered in keeping up the number of pilots, and ground men, in ratio to the increasing output of planes.

100,000 On Air Force

"During the last two years," he said, "we have achieved the largest expansion of personnel in time of peace ever witnessed in the Royal Aid Force. The man power of the R.A.F., alone is now well over 100,000 men.

"We haven't only added to the number of our pilots. We have added a large force of men to carry out the multitudinous services required to maintain a modern air force. I don't supose the public always realize that for every man who goes up in the air something like nine are needed to provide the necessary ground organization."

Britain, at present, has 10,000 pilots on the active list. This is augmented by several thousands members of the volunteer Civil Air Guard, and those who have left the R.A.F. to return to civil life.

Answers Criticism

Asked to comment on the oft-rised point that England has concentrated too much on defensive type of planes, rather than attack, Sir Kingsley replied:

"We have built and are building a balanced air force. We have increased our fighter strength, but not at the expense of the counter-offensive bombers. Wars cannot be won by defensive forces alone.

"The counter-offensive bomber is a powerful deterrent for any one contemplating war. But if it should fail to deter the attacker and war does come it is a vital means of defending him."

AUTOIST SKIPS BILL

The sheriff's department and highway patrolmen were unsuccessful Wednesday night in a search for a motorist who failed to pay $1.70 for gasoline purchased at the Gold Cliff Pure Oil station. The motorist, driving a 1934 Chevrolet two door sedan, with Pennsylvania license, purchased the gasoline about 8 o'clock, then drove away from the station without paying Harley Sparks, attendant. The station is operated by Orren Stout.

BRITAIN MOVES TO RETAIN LEAD IN NAVY POWER

Building Program Launched; Three Months To See Many New Ships

AVIATION PUT ASIDE

Need For More Submarines Added Strength In East Discussed

LONDON, Aug. 17—Aviation inferiority today was ignored as England reasserted its traditional supremacy on the waves.

This was strikingly revealed with the official admission that more battleships will be launched during the next three months than ever before in a similar period in British history.

The recent launching of the battleship, King George the V, by the King at Tyneside represented the first floating of a capital ship for the British Navy during the last 14 years. A sister ship, the Prince of Wales, was launched at Birkenhead.

Two destroyers, the Kashmir and the Kandahar, were launched in the early Summer, and the Phoebe, a new cruiser, was able to take the water at the same time.

Four Guns in a Turret

The King George the V is the first British battleship to mount its guns four in a turret. One quadruple turret forward will be surmounted by a twin mounting, and the other quadruple will be in the rear, giving a total of ten guns. The British Navy has not had a ten-gun battleship since the War, and it has only been made possible in this case on the limited displacement of 35,000 tons by the adoption of the new 14-inch gun instead of the 16-inch.

The difference in weight between the two types of gun with their mountings is considerable, but in actual volume of fire the new ships will be only a few pounds below the Nelson and the Rodney, owing to the additional number of guns carried, and will have a higher rate at rounds fired per minute.

The armour of the new ships will be a 14-inch belt with a six and one quarter inch deck for protection against bombs and plunging fire, while the armour of the gun turrets is given as 16-inch.

Effectiveness Not Established

Experiment has proved that modern armour of five inches will keep out all bombs up to 1,000 lb., but its effectiveness against a 2,400 pound shell falling at a steep angle is not definitely established, and, as it is thought that all future naval actions will be fought at the limit of visibility, all salvos from big guns will fall from above as if from airplanes.

Because of new range distances, a square hit is considered a thing of the past in modern naval warfare.

The British Navy, in the opinion of most experts, is still weak on two points; defense of Imperial possessions in the Far East, and in submarines.

Nevertheless, while a comparison of its navy of 1935-36—the period of the Mediterranean crisis—and 1939 shows no great increase in the numbers of ships, the interval has brought an incalculable improvement in all-around fighting power. Progress in low and high-angle gunnery has been good, due mainly to new guns, new amunition, and new fire control methods, lately introduced. It is probable that only the American fleet, for example, is better equipped to repel aircraft attack.

Fleet Training Improved

The tactical training of the fleet today is at a higher level than in 1935, owing to the increased fuel allowance which enables ships to exercise at sea more frequently and at higher speeds. Special attention is paid to anti-submarine methods, which are developing rapidly.

The submarine question is still a problem, however, and many naval officers are urging that provision be made at once for a large number of medium-sized destroyers—from 600 to 900 tons—with special anti-submarine equipment, the torpedo armament being subordinated to guns and depth charges. Some believe that the so-called motor torpedo boat has a big future as an anti-submarine weapon.

COUNCIL PREPARES TO ADD FIREMAN, EMPLOY MOTORCYCLE PATROLMAN

ORDINANCES UP FOR READINGS FOR FIRST TIME

New State Laws To Force Additional Firefighter For Department

TRAFFIC WORK ASSURED

Salary of New Member Of Police Force Fixed If Statute Passes

Oridnances for the employment of an additional fireman and a motorcycle patrolman were given single readings Wednesday evening before council.

The employment of an additional fireman is necessary to comply with new state laws governing the number of hours for firemen. The additional fireman would make chief and five firemen.

Under the new regulations the city firemen work 72 hours weekly. They are on duty 24 hours, then off duty a similar period. Every 14 days they are entitled to an extra 24 hours off duty. The four city firemen now work 84 hours and in addition serves at times when one of the four firemen is off duty.

Introduction of the ordinance for a motorcycle patrolman resulted from numerous complaints being filed with council concerning traffic conditions in Circleville. The addition of a motorcycle patrolman will increase the department to seven members, the chief, five regular patrolmen and one motorcycle patrolman.

The salary of the patrolman would be $110 monthly.

Another ordinance, passed under suspension of rules, appropriated $680.46 for the payment of insurance premiums on the municipal disposal plant.

John Baker tells us there will be no sort of constable, fine or otherwise, uniform for him. Thinks he couldn't get enough traffic violation arrests made in half a lifetime to pay for one. Our people seem to be too gentle, kind and obedient to disobey any kind of law, much less traffic law. So John will have no new uniform in his to bother about. And Marshal Bob Walden, while he hasn't made any definite statement yet, it is a pretty sure guess he'll keep on his old clothes at least for a time yet, unless ordered to do otherwise.

—Ashville—

As the annual Ashville-Lockbourne Lutheran Brotherhood picnic, chicken and corn roast, yesterday, there were about sixty present with 17 fat, young chickens in evidence, was an unlimited supply of roast and boiled roasting ears, roast potatoes, along with sliced tomatoes, ice cream, cake, tea and coffee. Besides the eats, there was a ball game and the others "just visited" a most enjoyable afternoon for all.

The Stump, Long and Trone reunion will be held next Sunday, the 20th, at the home of Henry and George Stump near Marcy. And the annual Swoyer reunion, too, will be held next Sunday at the Stoutsville campground. Mrs. W. A. Bavers, president.

COUNCIL PREPARES TO ADD FIREMAN, EMPLOY MOTORCYCLE PATROLMAN

ORDINANCES UP FOR READINGS FOR FIRST TIME

New State Laws To Force Additional Firefighter For Department

TRAFFIC WORK ASSURED

Salary of New Member Of Police Force Fixed If Statute Passes

Oridnances for the employment of an additional fireman and a motorcycle patrolman were given single readings Wednesday evening before council.

The employment of an additional fireman is necessary to comply with new state laws governing the number of hours for firemen. The additional fireman would make chief and five firemen.

Under the new regulations the city firemen work 72 hours weekly. They are on duty 24 hours, then off duty a similar period. Every 14 days they are entitled to an extra 24 hours off duty. The four city firemen now work 84 hours and in addition serves at times when one of the four firemen is off duty.

Introduction of the ordinance for a motorcycle patrolman resulted from numerous complaints being filed with council concerning traffic conditions in Circleville. The addition of a motorcycle patrolman will increase the department to seven members, the chief, five regular patrolmen and one motorcycle patrolman.

The salary of the patrolman would be $110 monthly.

Another ordinance, passed under suspension of rules, appropriated $680.46 for the payment of insurance premiums on the municipal disposal plant.

Nine State 4-H Bands To Appear At Big Fair

COLUMBUS, Aug. 18—An innovation at this year's State Fair, Aug. 26 to Sept. 1, will be personal appearance engagements of nine county 4-H Club bands from various sections of Ohio, as a feature of the Ohio State Junior Fair program.

Although these groups have appeared in the past in conjunction with their own respective county fairs, this marks the first time that they have ever been featured at the State Fair.

Nattily attired in their regulation regalia, the various bands are scheduled to play at various points on the exposition grounds during the morning of their appearance followed by a concert during the afternoon in the new junior fair Coliseum.

The first band scheduled to appear is that from Montgomery county, which will play Sunday, Aug. 27. This group is comprised of 60 musicians.

On the following day the Darke and Clinton county bands will divide honors in entertaining fair visitors. Rev. W. E. Sanders heads the Darke county band of 50 pieces while A. Glenn Snell directs the Clinton county group of a like number of bandsmen.

Franklin, Farifield Next

On Tuesday, the Franklin and Farifield county bands will provide the musical entertainment. The Franklin county unit of 42 pieces is headed by George Schultz. The Farifield county group is composed of 70 musicians.

Highland and Athens county groups are scheduled to make their apearance on Wednesday. Headed by R. W. Connet, the Athens county band has 35 pieces while the Highland county group with 50 members is under the direction of Forest Lemon.

On Thursday, Governor's Day, the Pickaway and Belmont county will put in their appearance. The former group headed by Miss Bernelle Goodman boasts 65 players while the later with 60 bandsmen is directed jointly by Fred and Lois Peck.

These bands will be further augmented on the exposition grounds by the 300 piece all-Ohio boys band and those of other organizations, thus assuring visitors of continuous entertainment from the time the gates are thrown open until they are closed each night.

THEATRES

AT THE CLIFTONA

With a "Yank at Oxford" rated as one of Robert Taylor's greatest films, and with "The Citadel" hailed by critics as the finest picture of last year, M-G-M in offering to screen audiences its third British-made production, "Goodbye, Mr. Chips," which opens Sunday at the Cliftona theatre, was faced with the task of producing a picture which was at least as good if not better than its two celebrated predecessors.

This they believe to have accomplished in the picturization of of James Hilton's best-seller novel of Englis public school life, "Goodbye, Mr. Chips," with Robert Donat again cast as the star, and with Greer Garson, new film "discovery," playing the leading feminine role.

Both "A Yank at Oxford" and "The Citadel" were pictures with a difference, and it is promised that "Goodbye, Mr. Crips" is different too.
